Class History

"THROUGH THE YEARS"

On one bright September day, in 1937, seventeen children with faces shining and hair combed to a "t", began their school career. Our first experiences of school were under the direction of Mrs. Gathe.

Those who began their school career were:

Richard Bearsley	Keith Mattern
Clarence Chapman	Frank O'Neil
Terry Fletcher	Virginia Pearce
Gene Gehrts	Ted Rydell
Albert Hatfield	Lester Suck
Herbert Hatfield	Henry Wunder
James Kirchner	Jay Gantenbein
Virgina Mason	Carl Wunder
Jerry Miller

In the first grade there were fifteen boys and two girls, making the girls chances of doing anything but what the boys wanted to do, very slim.

As we moved into the second grade we were joined by three new pupils; Jeanette Cook and John Holman and Edward Potter.

In the second grade we had one experience which was interesting to the class but most embarrassing to one of the boys. For punishment for doing something, he was put into the cloak room. While in the cloak room, he ate the lunch of one of the girls which was in her coat. As you have already guessed this boy was Jay Gantenbein.

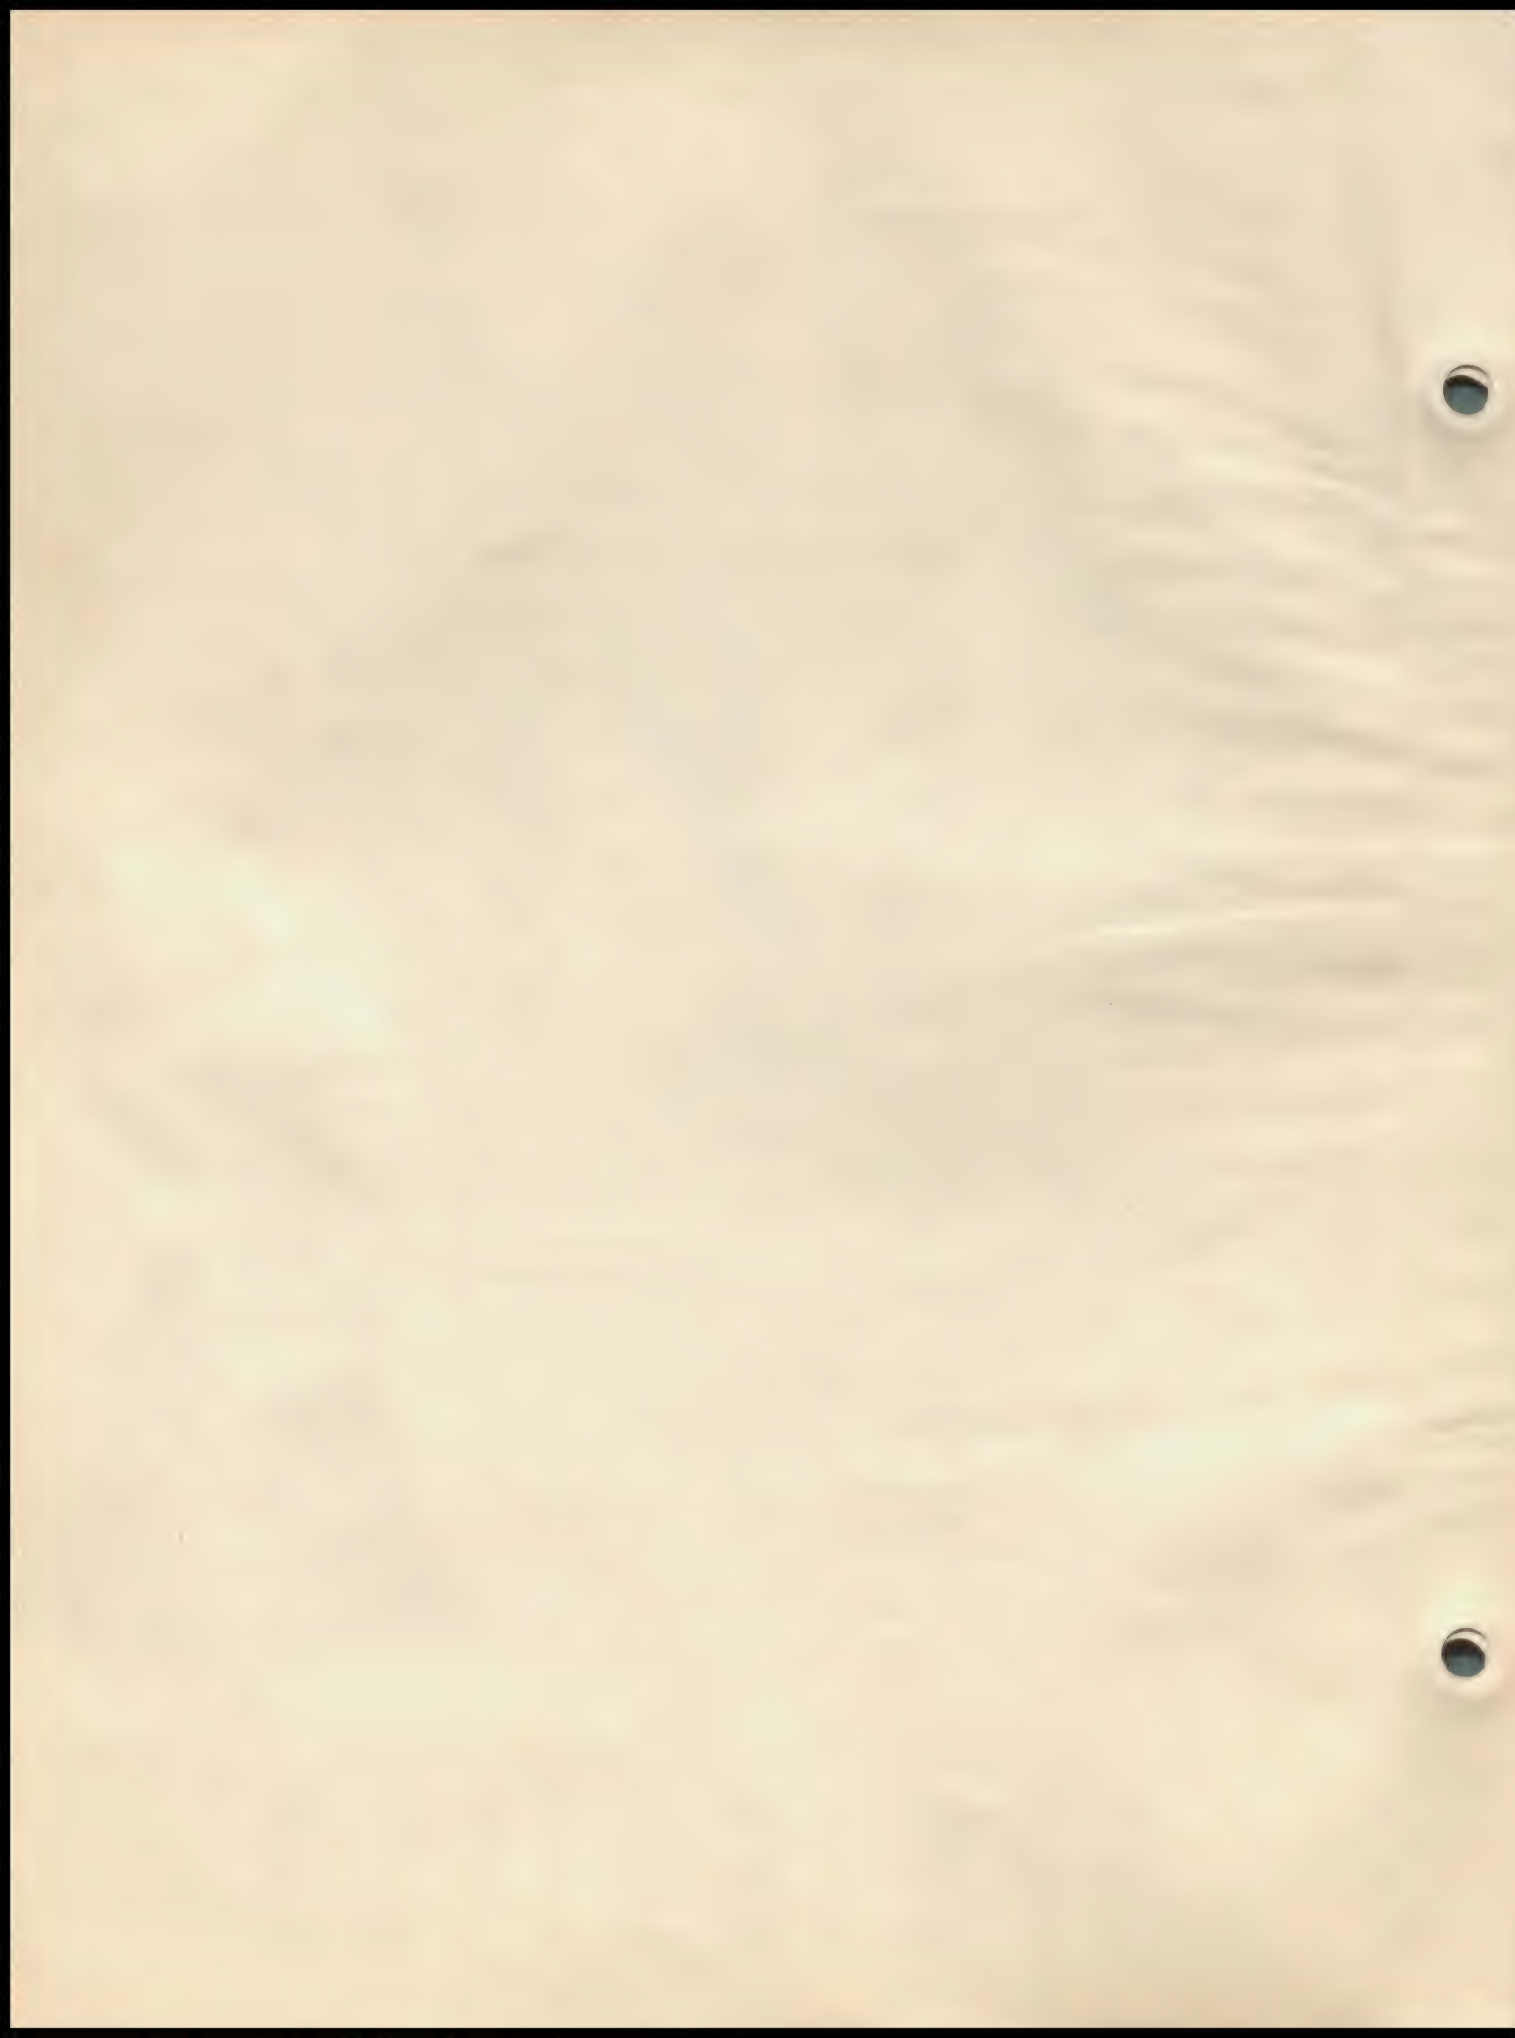

In those olden days the school enrollment wasn't as large as it is now. One teacher could usually teach two grades, thus we had Mrs. Gathe for the first two years.

As we graduated from the first and second grades, we passed from the direction of Mrs. Gathe to the direction of Miss Carbine who taught the third and fourth grade.

While we were in the third and fourth grades we began what was known as "Tiny Town Bank." It was a place for the grade children to put their spare cash in a safe place with the third and fourth grade running this.

While in the third and fourth grade, Miss Carbine started a tonette band. Nearly all pupils participated in this band.

It was very successful as several times we played with the entire student body. They were entertained by our music.

When we were in the fourth grade we gained seven new pupils Beulah Alexander, Jo Anne Du Bois, Donald Duvall, George Haring, Steve Jaeger, Melba Watson, and Melvin Watson.

In the fifth grade we obtained quite a number of new pupils because of Craig Manor. These included Gerald Bonham, Mary Dittmar, Donna Hansen, Marian Harper, Joan Jagielski, and Darrel Massie, Donald Nelson, Pat Winter, Betty Welp, Glen Snider, Jo Anne Massie, and Jeanne Burns.

While in the fifth grade we had two teachers. Our first teacher was Mrs. Lansing, and midway through the year we were blessed with another teacher, Mrs. Haines.

As we went into the sixth grade they decided to have the teachers move from classroom to classroom, specializing in one subject to three grades. Our three teachers in this grade were Mrs. Welsh, Mrs. Blunt, and our home room teacher, Miss Chapman, at that time, but now, Mrs. Morrison.

While we were in the sixth grade we acquired one new pupil, Helen Womak. When we went into the seventh grade the school had gone back to the old system of having one teacher to each grade. We had three teachers that year. That same year we acquired the title of "The Terrors of the School." Our first teacher was Mrs. Hollingshead. Our next teacher was Mr. Roland Stark, the first male teacher we had had. After Mr. Stark had left us we acquired Mrs. Glen Keene. In that grade the newcomers to our class were Lois Hazel, Ronald Smith and Betty Lou Sharf and Robert Darnell.

As we went into the eight grade we still were known as the "Terrors" but required only one teacher, Mrs. Fred Ernest. While in the eight grade we overtook three other students, they were Vic Mason, Robert Ryniewicz and Betty Chapman.

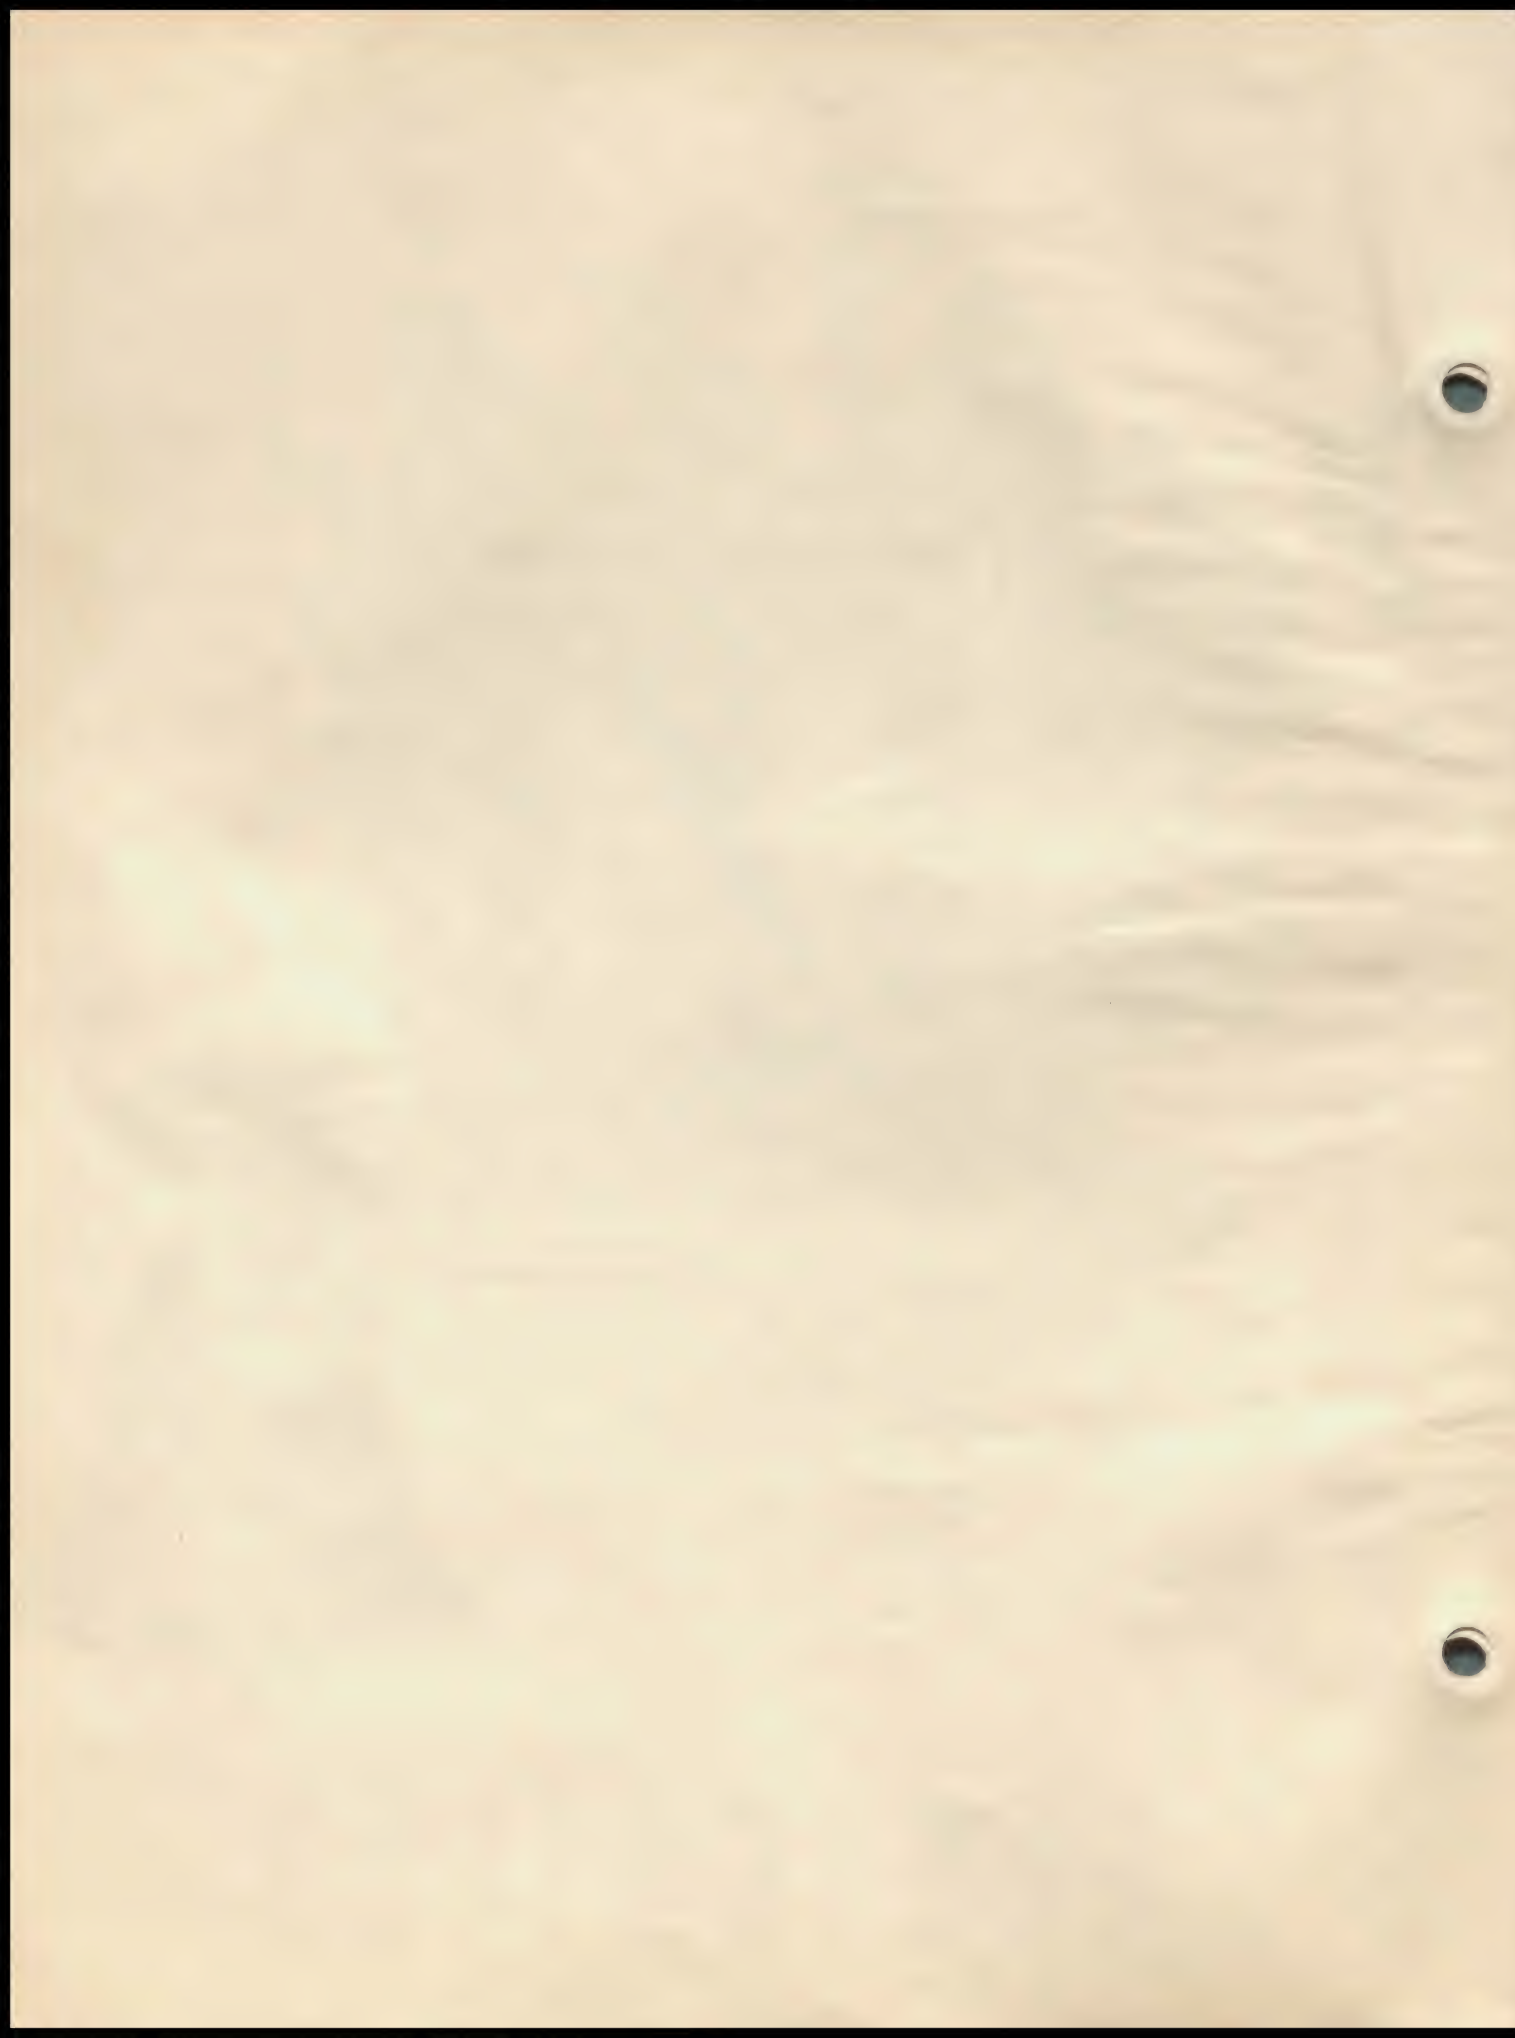

When we graduated from the eight grade into high school we had 28 in the class. Others moved in and other quite or flunked but those that went into high school were:

Richard Bearsley
Elvin Beyer
Jeanne Burns
Robert Darnell
Mary Dittmar
Jay Gantenbein
Gene Gehrts
Ruth Haug
Lois Hazel
Tom Holcombe
Joan Jagielski
Virginia Mason
Darrel Massie
Jo Anne Massie

Delores Menezes
Keith Mattern
Ione Line
Jerry Miller
Alice Morrison
Ed Potter
Marshall Rall
Robert Ryniewicz
Ronald Smith
Lester Suck
Betty Welp
Shirley Wescott
Pat Winter
Vic Mason

As we came into high school we were greeted by the traditional Freshman Initiation, all of us believing that this year's initiation was the worst ever. The faculty consisted of Mr. G. C. Stutzman, Principal, who had been our principal for the past eight years, Robert Kane, Commercial, Mr. F. L. Burns Jr., Mathematics and Sciences, Mrs. Robert Kane, Domestic Sciences, Miss Dortha Rit-enour, English and Mr. Donald Blunt, History. Our class advisor was Mr. Blunt.

Our second year was uneventful but a new teacher was Mr. Garret, English and band instructor was added to the facility. In our Junior year we had three, short, one-act plays. The director of these plays was Mrs. Blunt. The plays were quite successful. One other big event in our junior year was the Junior-Senior Prom. The theme of that was A Circus. While in the Junior Year we had three new teachers. They were Mrs. Ellen Mahlum, Commercial; Miss Mary Covert, Domestic Science; and Miss Welker, English.

This brings us up to our last year. We have had three dances, two of which Jack Busch played at and the other the Oklahoma Cowboys furnished the music. We published the first annual ever to be put out in this school.

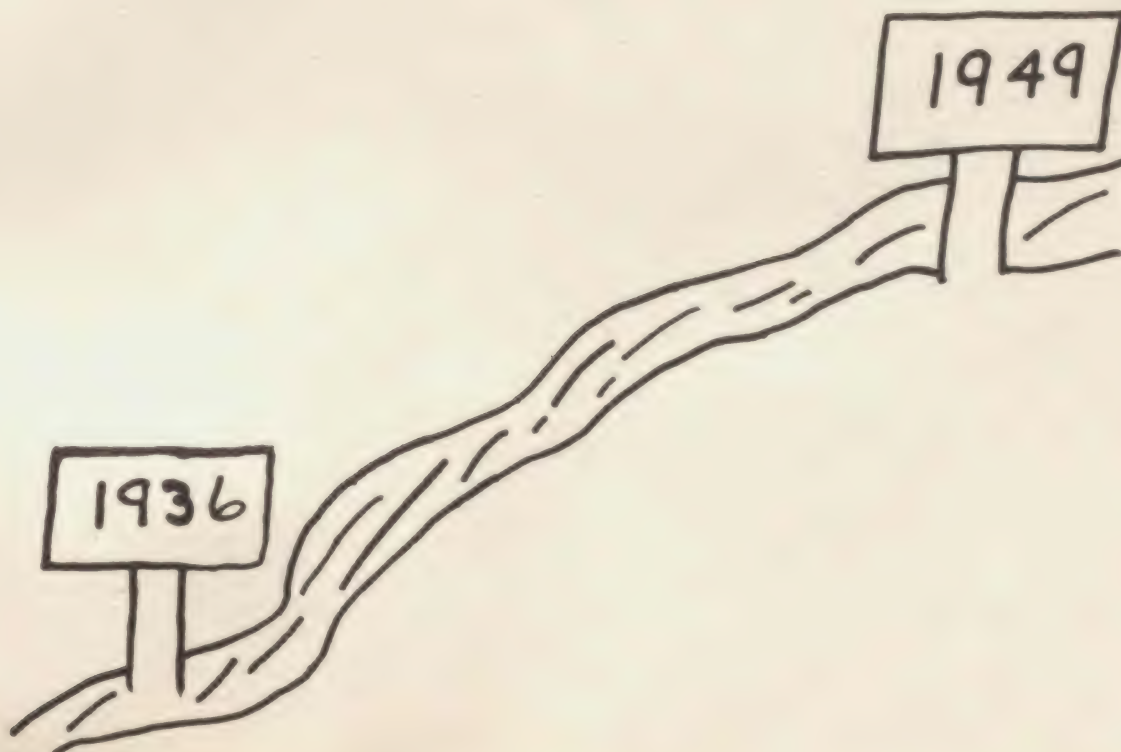

This year we were under the direction of a new principal, Mr. O. L. Haile who replaces G. C. Stutzman, who had been principal for 25 years.

This year our new teachers are Miss Julia C. Sword, English; Miss Marian Zierath, Domestic Science; and General Science; and Mr. Edgan N. Dixon, Commercial, and Mr. John O. Hirst, History and Coach.

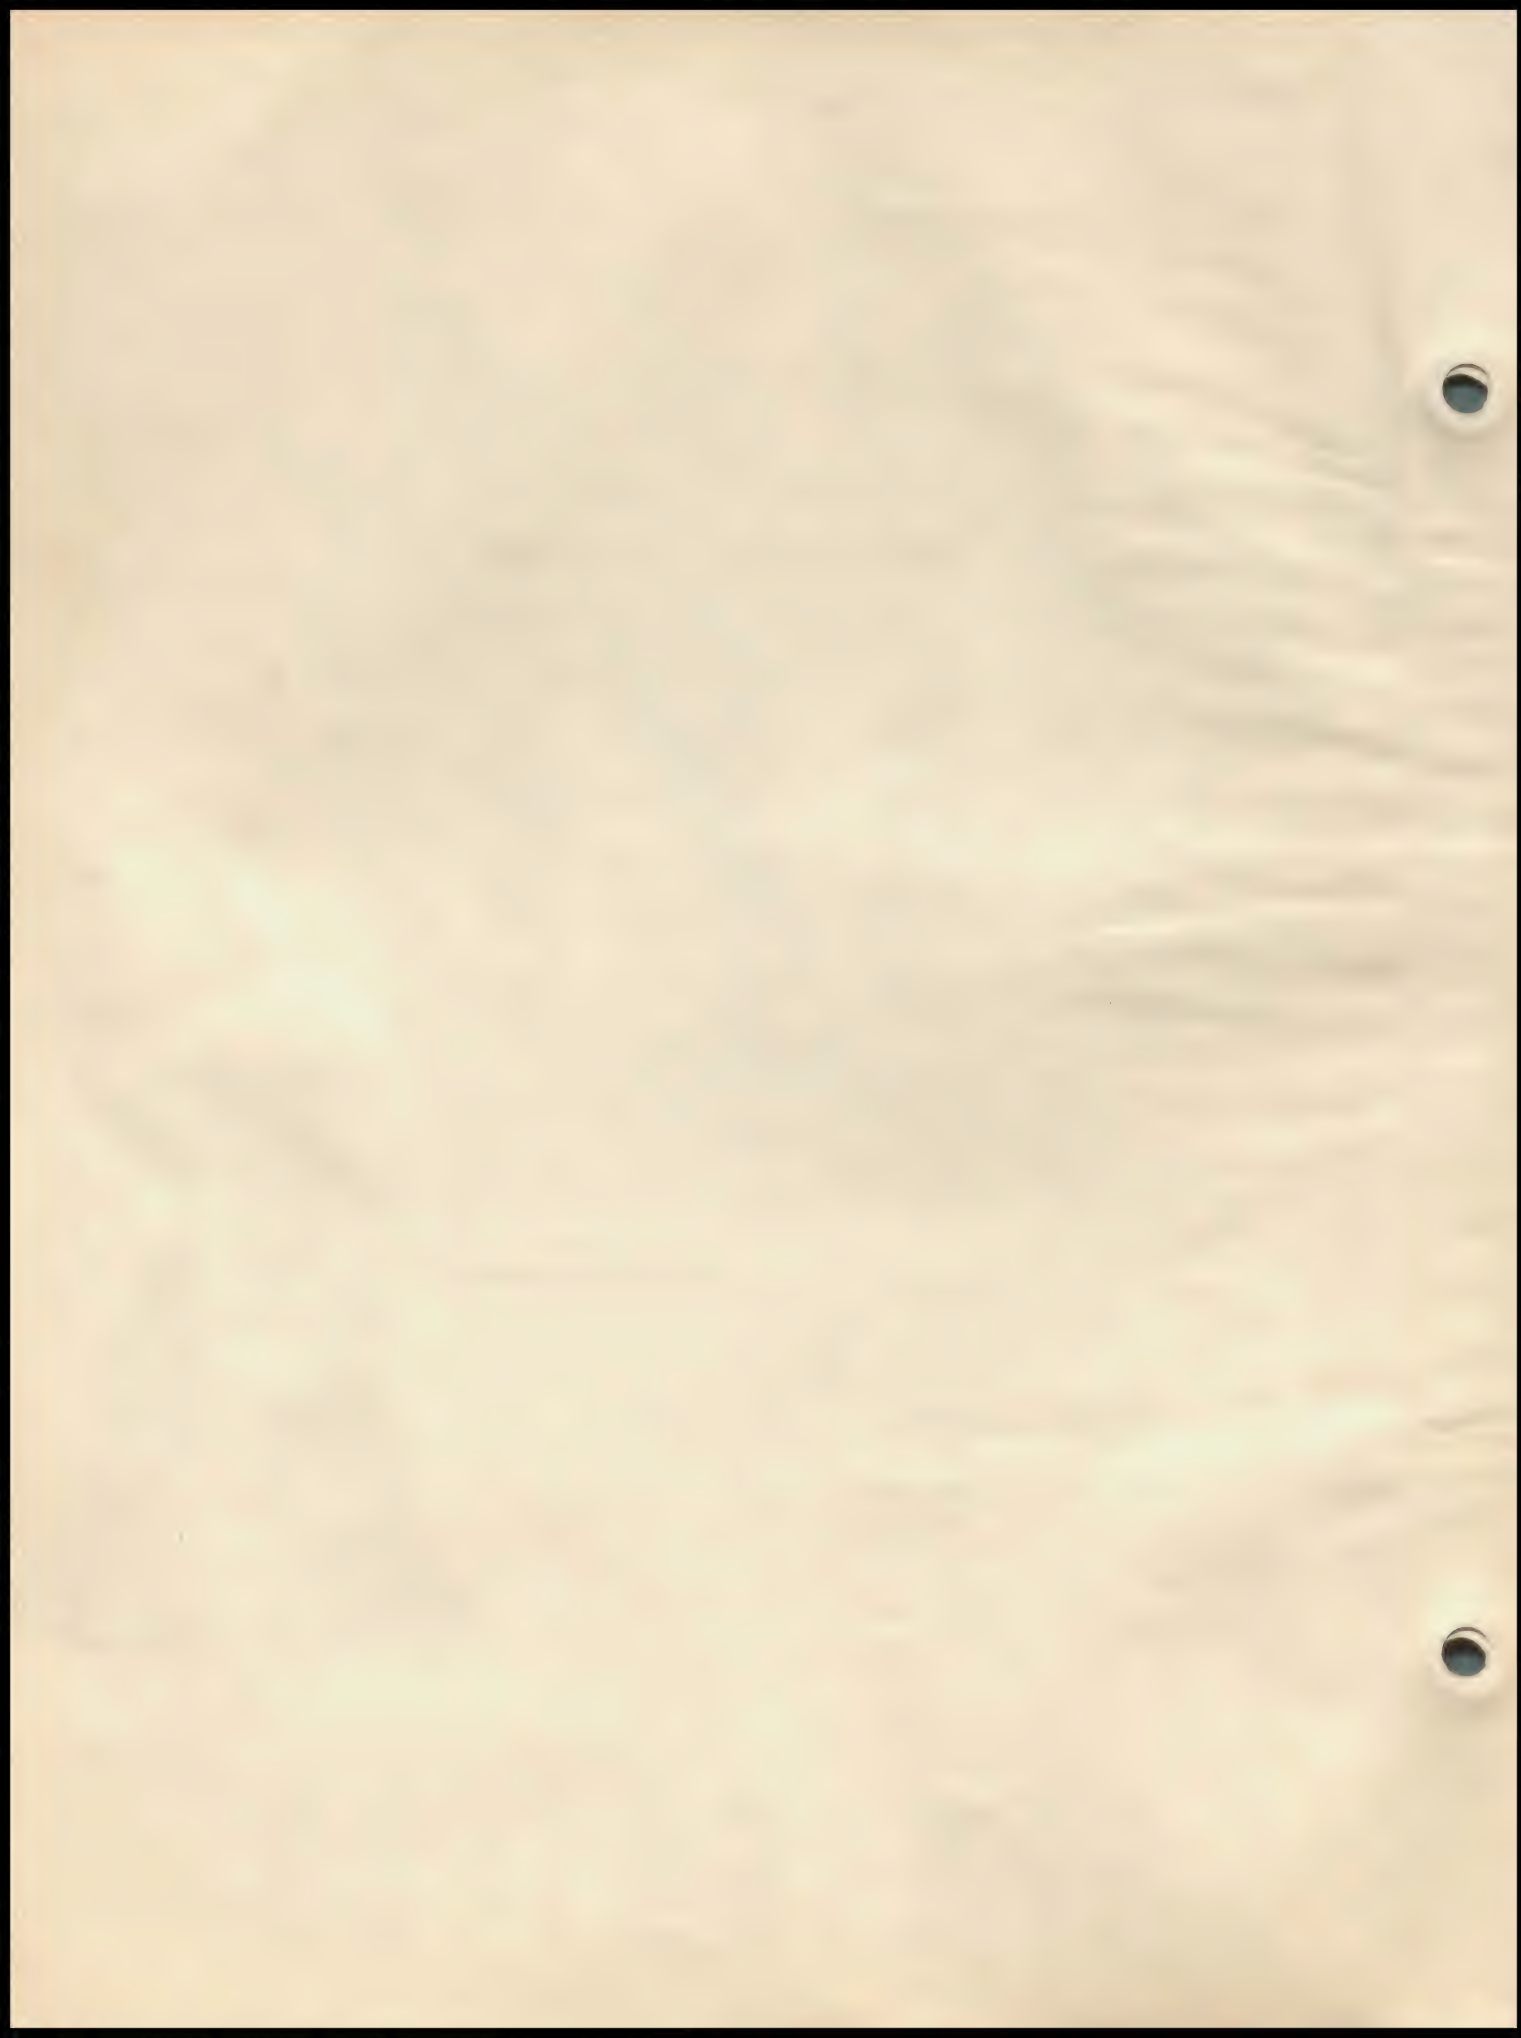

This brings us up to those graduating this year, they are:

Richard Bearsley
Jeanne Burns
Lois Hazel
Joan Jagielski
Virginia Mason
Jo Anne Massie
Keith Mattern
Delores Menezes

Jerry Miller
Ione Line

Class Prophecy

"THATS MY DESIRE"

As the time for graduation draws near, we are wondering what will become of the class of '49 in future years. Let us gaze into the crystal ball of speculation and see what it will reveal to us.

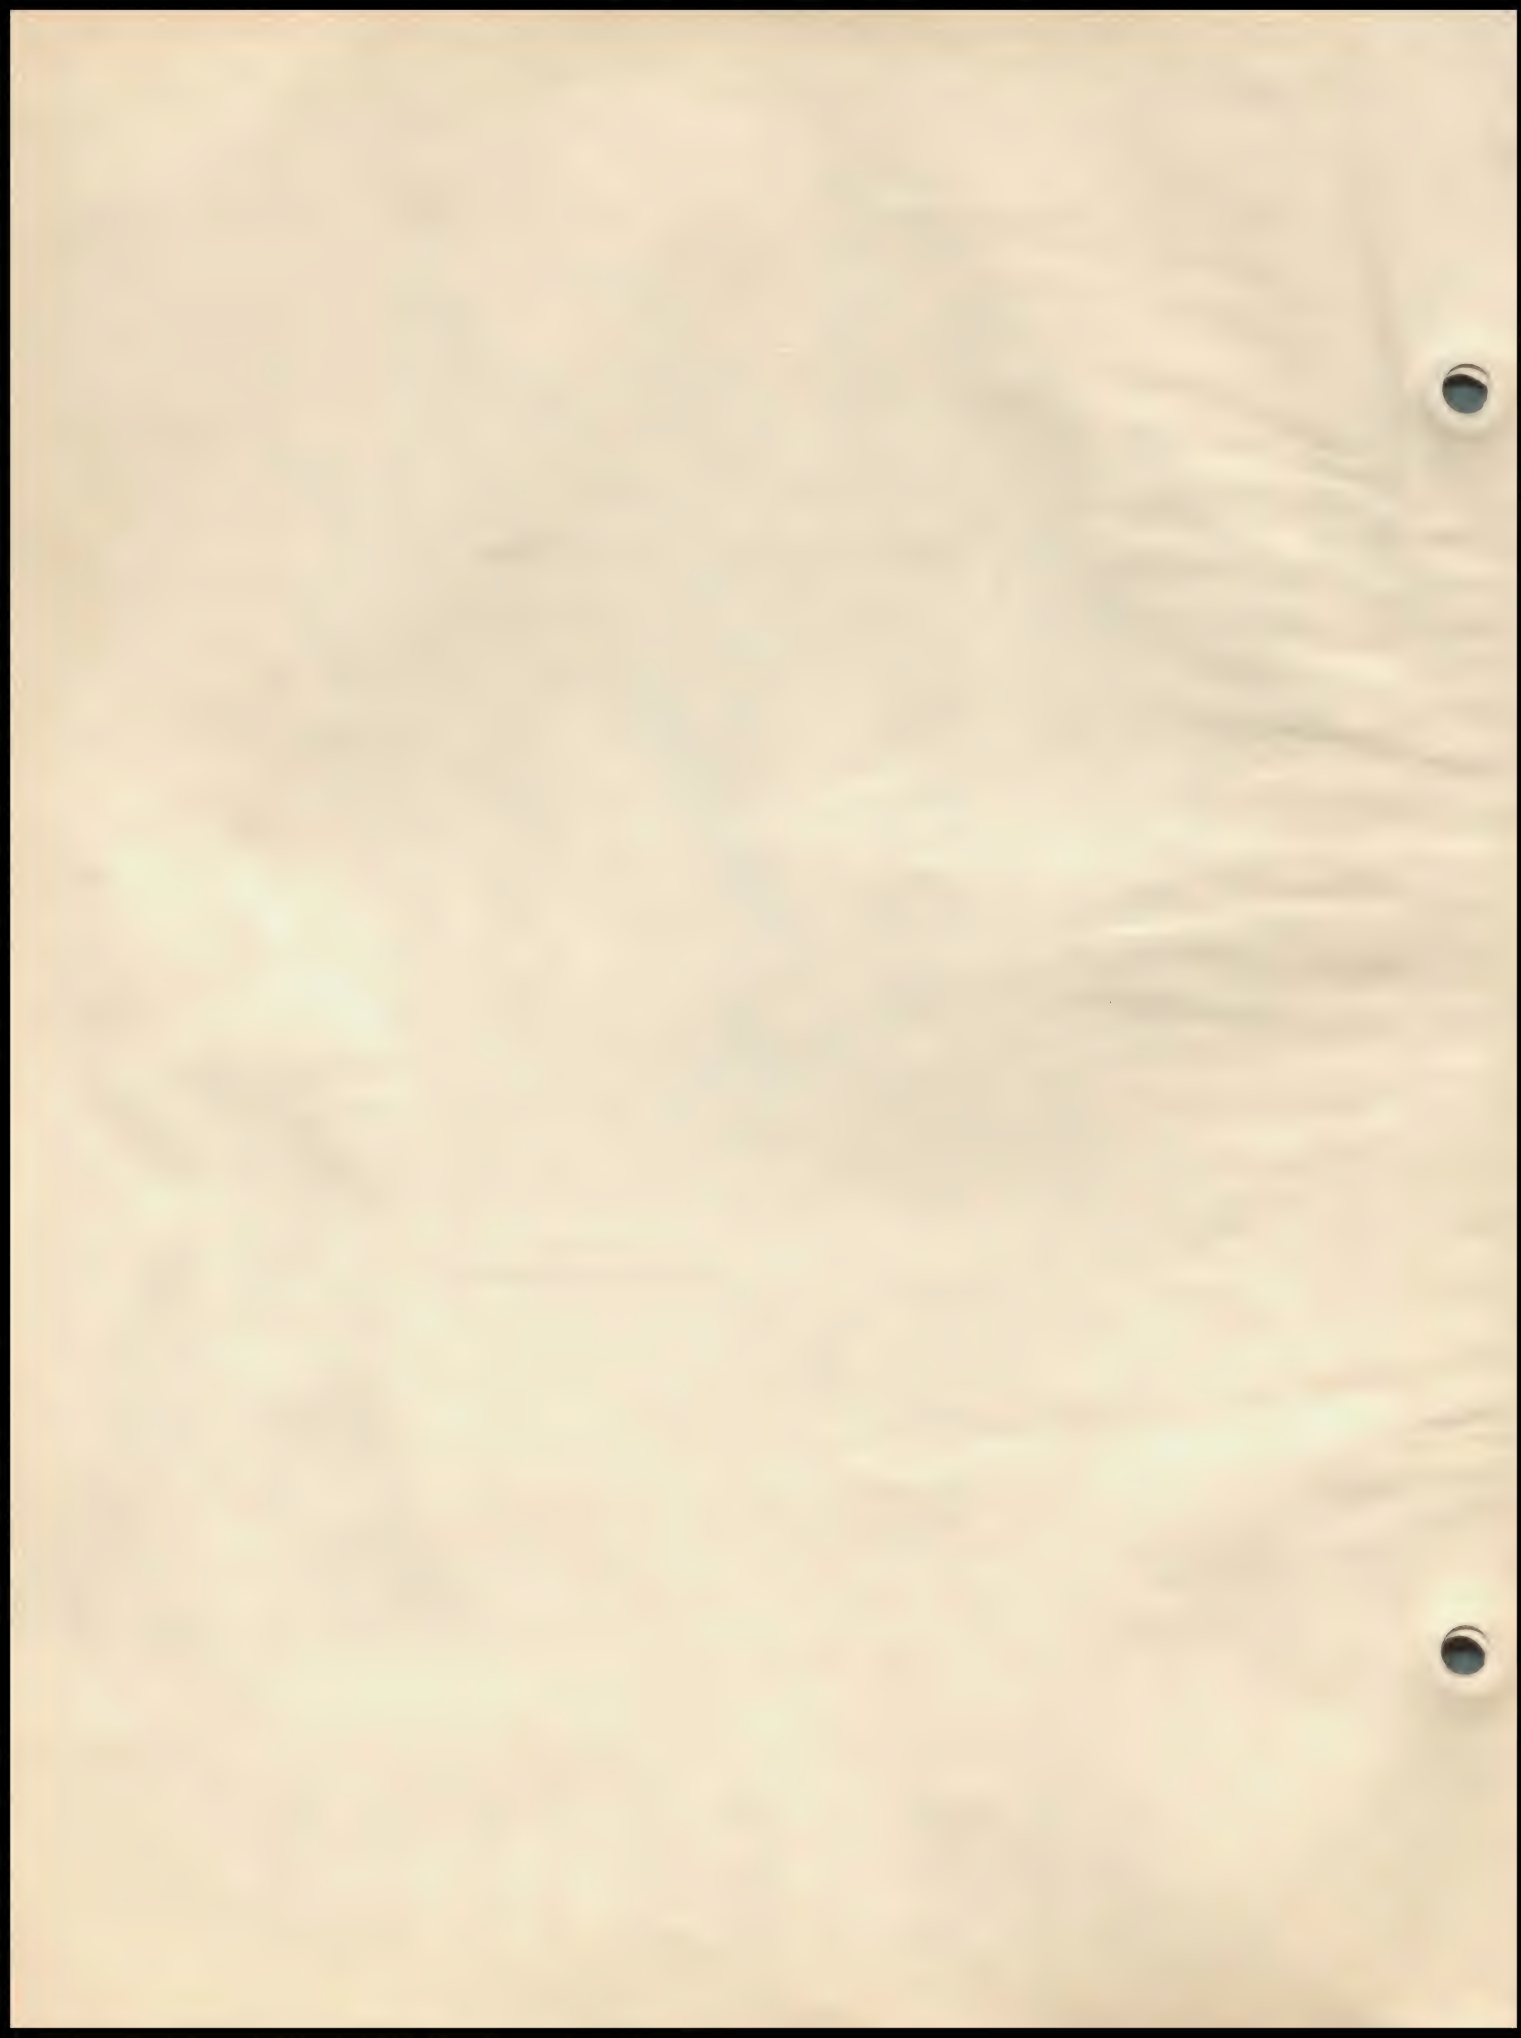

The crystal ball begins to clear now and we hear a strange rumbling noise as if a storm was brewing. The vision draws nearer and as it does, the noise becomes louder until the whole room vibrates. We find ourselves in the midst of a large crowd and people are dancing all around us doing that famous step--none other than the "Bishop's Hall Stomp!! Our ears are filled with the tantalizing rhythm of the "Okla-homa Cowboys." Suddenly the room is darkened. All around us people are pressing eagerly forward. A spotlight flashes onto the stage and into the center of it steps Miss Patricia Winter, together with her accompanist, Miss Alice Morrison, one of the foremost masters of the accodian. An awed silence fills the hall as the beautiful strains of "Twelfth Street Rag" issue forth. The performance is followed by deafening applause and as we push our way forward to congratulate the talented pair, the scene starts slowly to fade-----

We find ourselves in the midst of another smaller room filled with school desks, a seething throng of growing boys and girls and an authoritative person standing at the front of the room whom we recognize as our old school chum, Delores Meneses. As we watch, she expertly dodges a spit-ball and immediately quiet and order are restored as she raps on the desk. We leave her as she sits down on her chair, which has been liberally sprinkled with tacks by one of her prize pupils-----Ouch!!!

An entirely different scene flashes into view as we arrive in Wyoming. A low rambling ranch house greets our eyes and a sign announces that our destination will be one of the largest stables in the country. As we look over the general layout of the ranch our gaze is attracted by a commotion in one of the corrals. We take it upon ourselves to investigate and we find that it is caused by the breaking of a black and gleaming bucking bronc, ridden by Lone Line. After several moments of anxious suspense, Lone triumphantly leads the gentled horse from the corral as we depart from her western home.

"No mail today," a voice says sweetly, and we find ourselves entering the Hanover Post Office. We notice a great many changes in the old place--dainty frilled curtains at the windows, pastel shaded walls and little cloth ruffles around the boxes. A true decorators touch has been applied by the new post-mistress, Joan Jagielski. Joan is one of the youngest Post-Mistresses in this part of the state due to the fact that she learned most of the male business while still in High School. We would like to stay and visit but we find the scene being changed once more.

The noisy din of a typewriter welcomes us to the California home of that famous sports writer for the Los Angeles Chronicle, Jerry Miller. He is busily pounding out tomorrow's report on the latest developments in the sports world. His appearance is somewhat altered by a black eye which he received while trying to obtain first-hand information at a boxing bout. We leave Jerry rummaging in the ice box for a fresh piece of beefsteak and gaze more deeply into the crystal ball.

An elevator carries rapidly upward and as it glides to a stop, the doors slide back and we are facing the executive offices of Dunbar, Dunbar, Dimwiddle, Goldstien and Bearsley. It seems as though our friend, Dick has done well for himself in the business world. Led on by curiosity, we open the door which reads Richard N. Bearsley, second Vice President, only to find that the secretary looking across the massive desk at us is Jo Anne Massie, another of the graduating class of '49. After an interesting chat with Jo Anne, which is ended by a call from the inner office, we reluctantly depart.

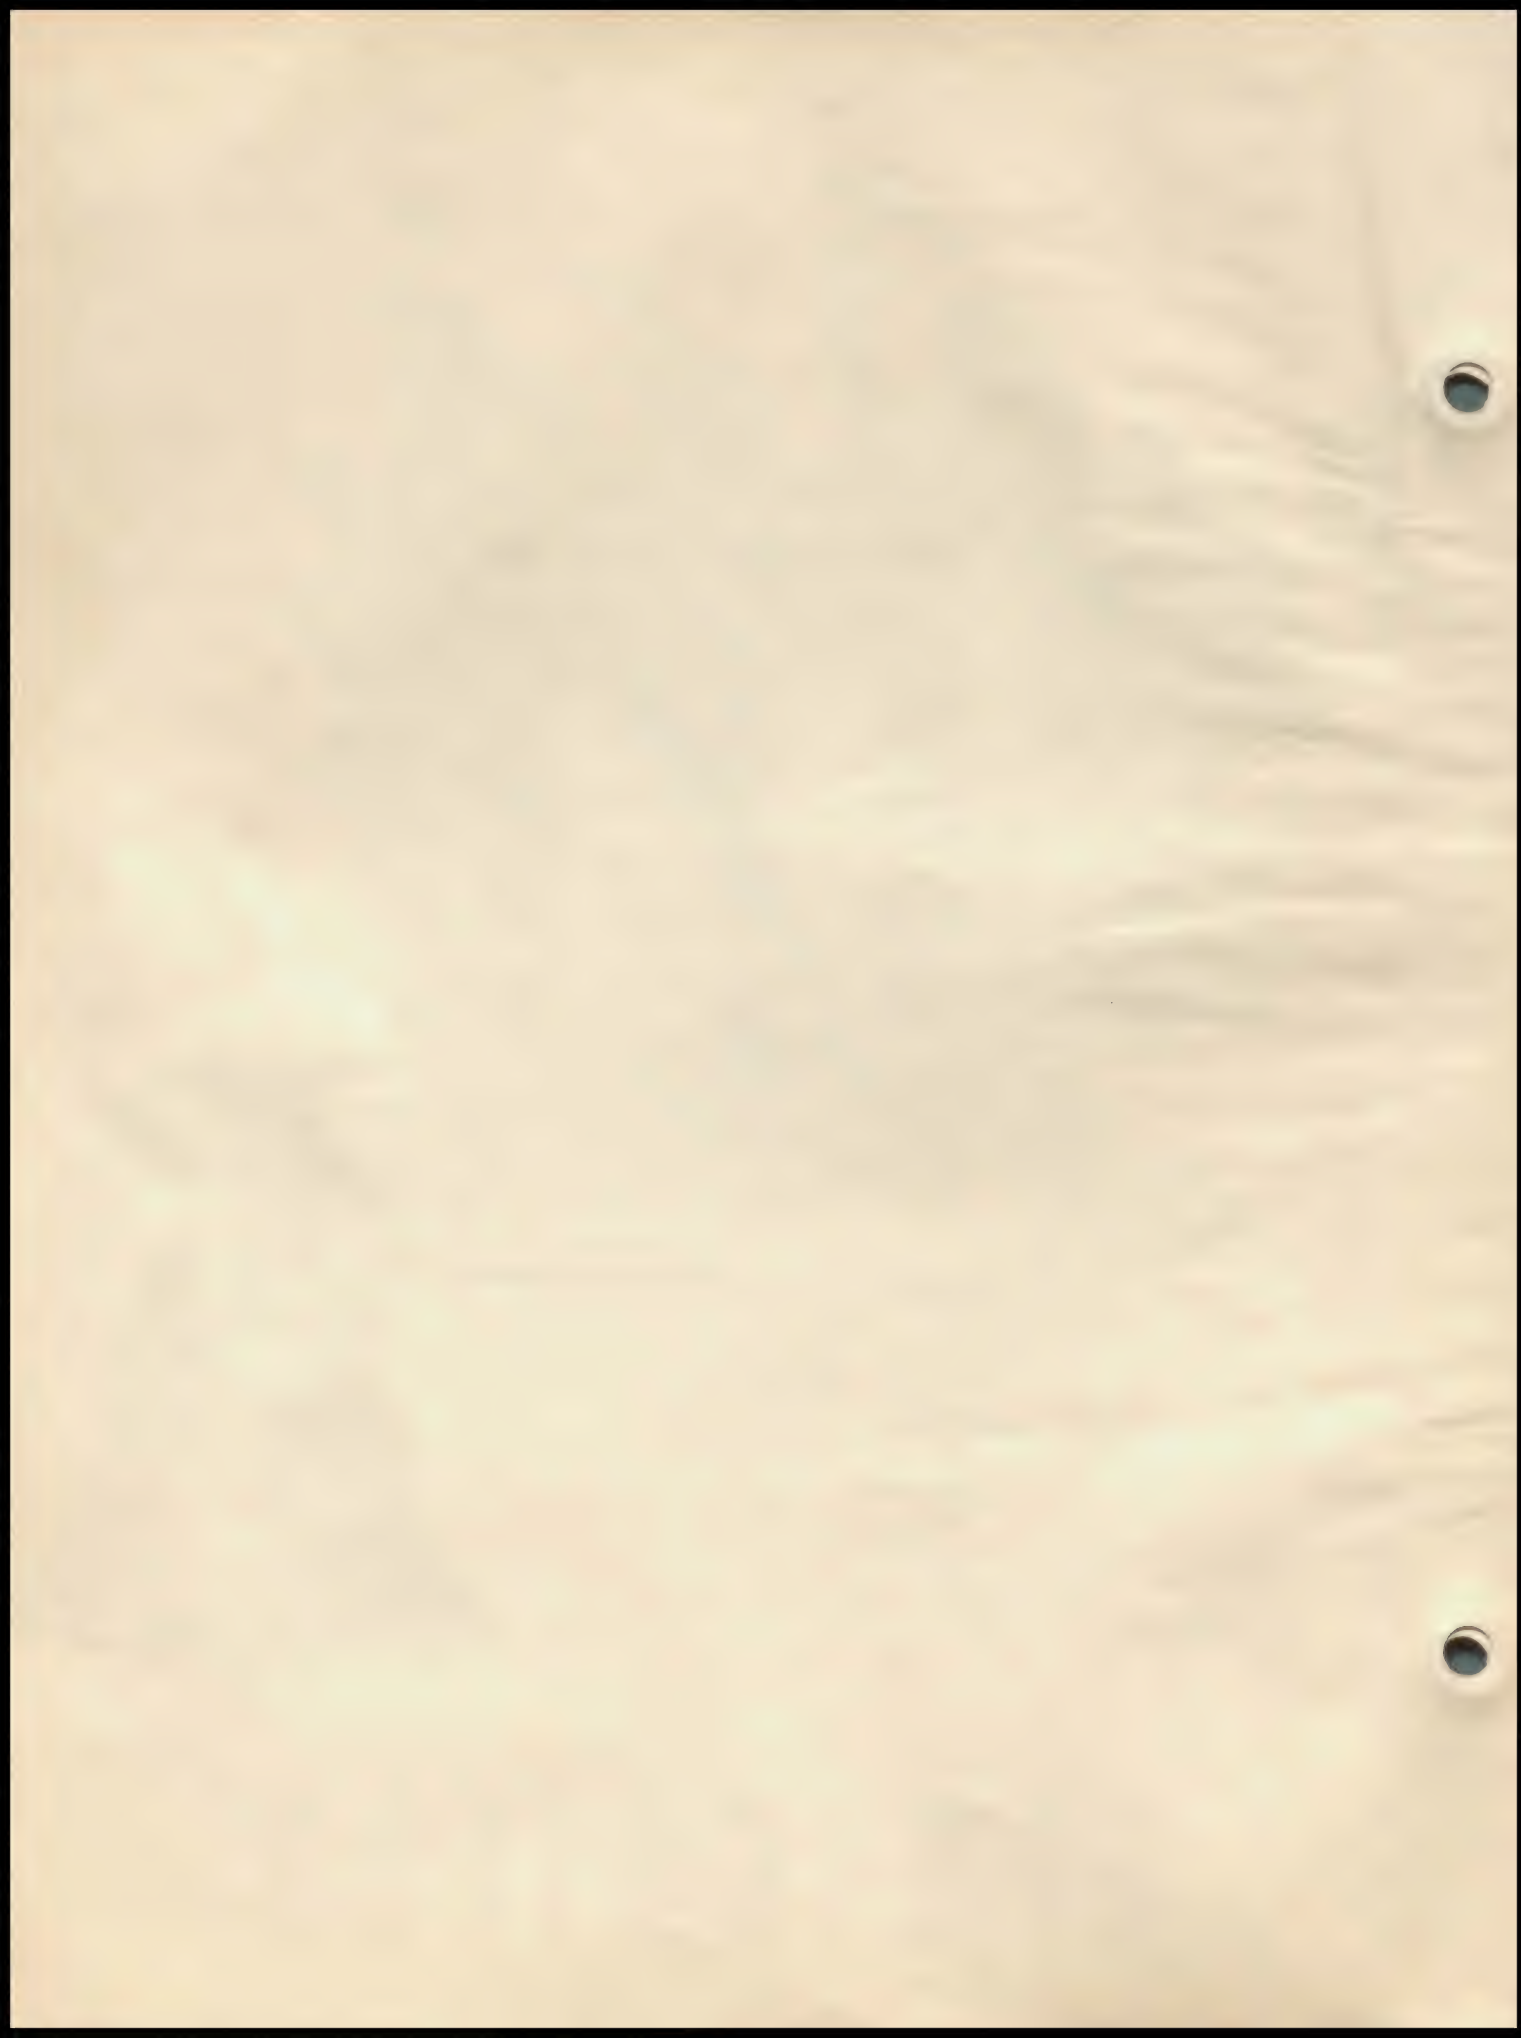

The scene shifts abruptly. The odor of perfumed lotions, the acrid smell of waving solution and the earthy aroma of mud packs tell us that we have arrived at the "Establishment of Health and Beauty" which is owned and operated by Lois Hazel and Betty Welp. Walking through the thick carpets of the Reception Room, we finally make our way to the "torture" chambers used for beauty treatments. As we watch we notice that Local Gossipers' Union No. 65 is having their weekly meeting while Betty and Lois skillfully ply their trade.

Suddenly the refined chatter of the ladies is transformed into a cheering crowd of basefall fans as the scene changes to Wrigley Field. The shouts seem to be directed at the young man who is coming out of the dugout. His special bat is presented to him and as he confidently strides to home plate we recognize the determined face of Lester Suck. "Petie" grips his bat more firmly and sets his hat more stubbornly as the cry of the umpire rings out through the air---"Strike one." The crowd goes wild with anxiety as the umpire declares "Strike Two." Will the great player strike out?---no!!! As the ball whizzes across home plate there is a resounding "crack" and the crystal ball begins to cloud as "Petie" moves around the bases with the speed of a jet plane to a triumphant home run.

What are the strange noises that assail our ears? It is horses, cows, chickens and pigs. Well, well, it seems as though Ed and Jean have founded quite a prosperous little farm for themselves. As we round the corner of the house, we are just in time to see Jean waving goodbye to Ed as he drives off in the Gasoline truck which he operates as a side line to the farming business. She watches till he arrives out of sight and then turns at the urgent call of "Mamma, Junior's got my doll again."

In town, Ed stops and enters a grocery store where we meet another of our old classmates, Virginia Mason. Tootie asks Ed how Jean and the children are as she fills his grocery order. Among her other duties, "Tootie" often has to remind the patrons not to pinch the peaches and other fruit, this being a habit of the Hanover folks. We leave "Tootie" busily preparing Saturday delivery orders and wend our way to the final scene in the crystal ball.

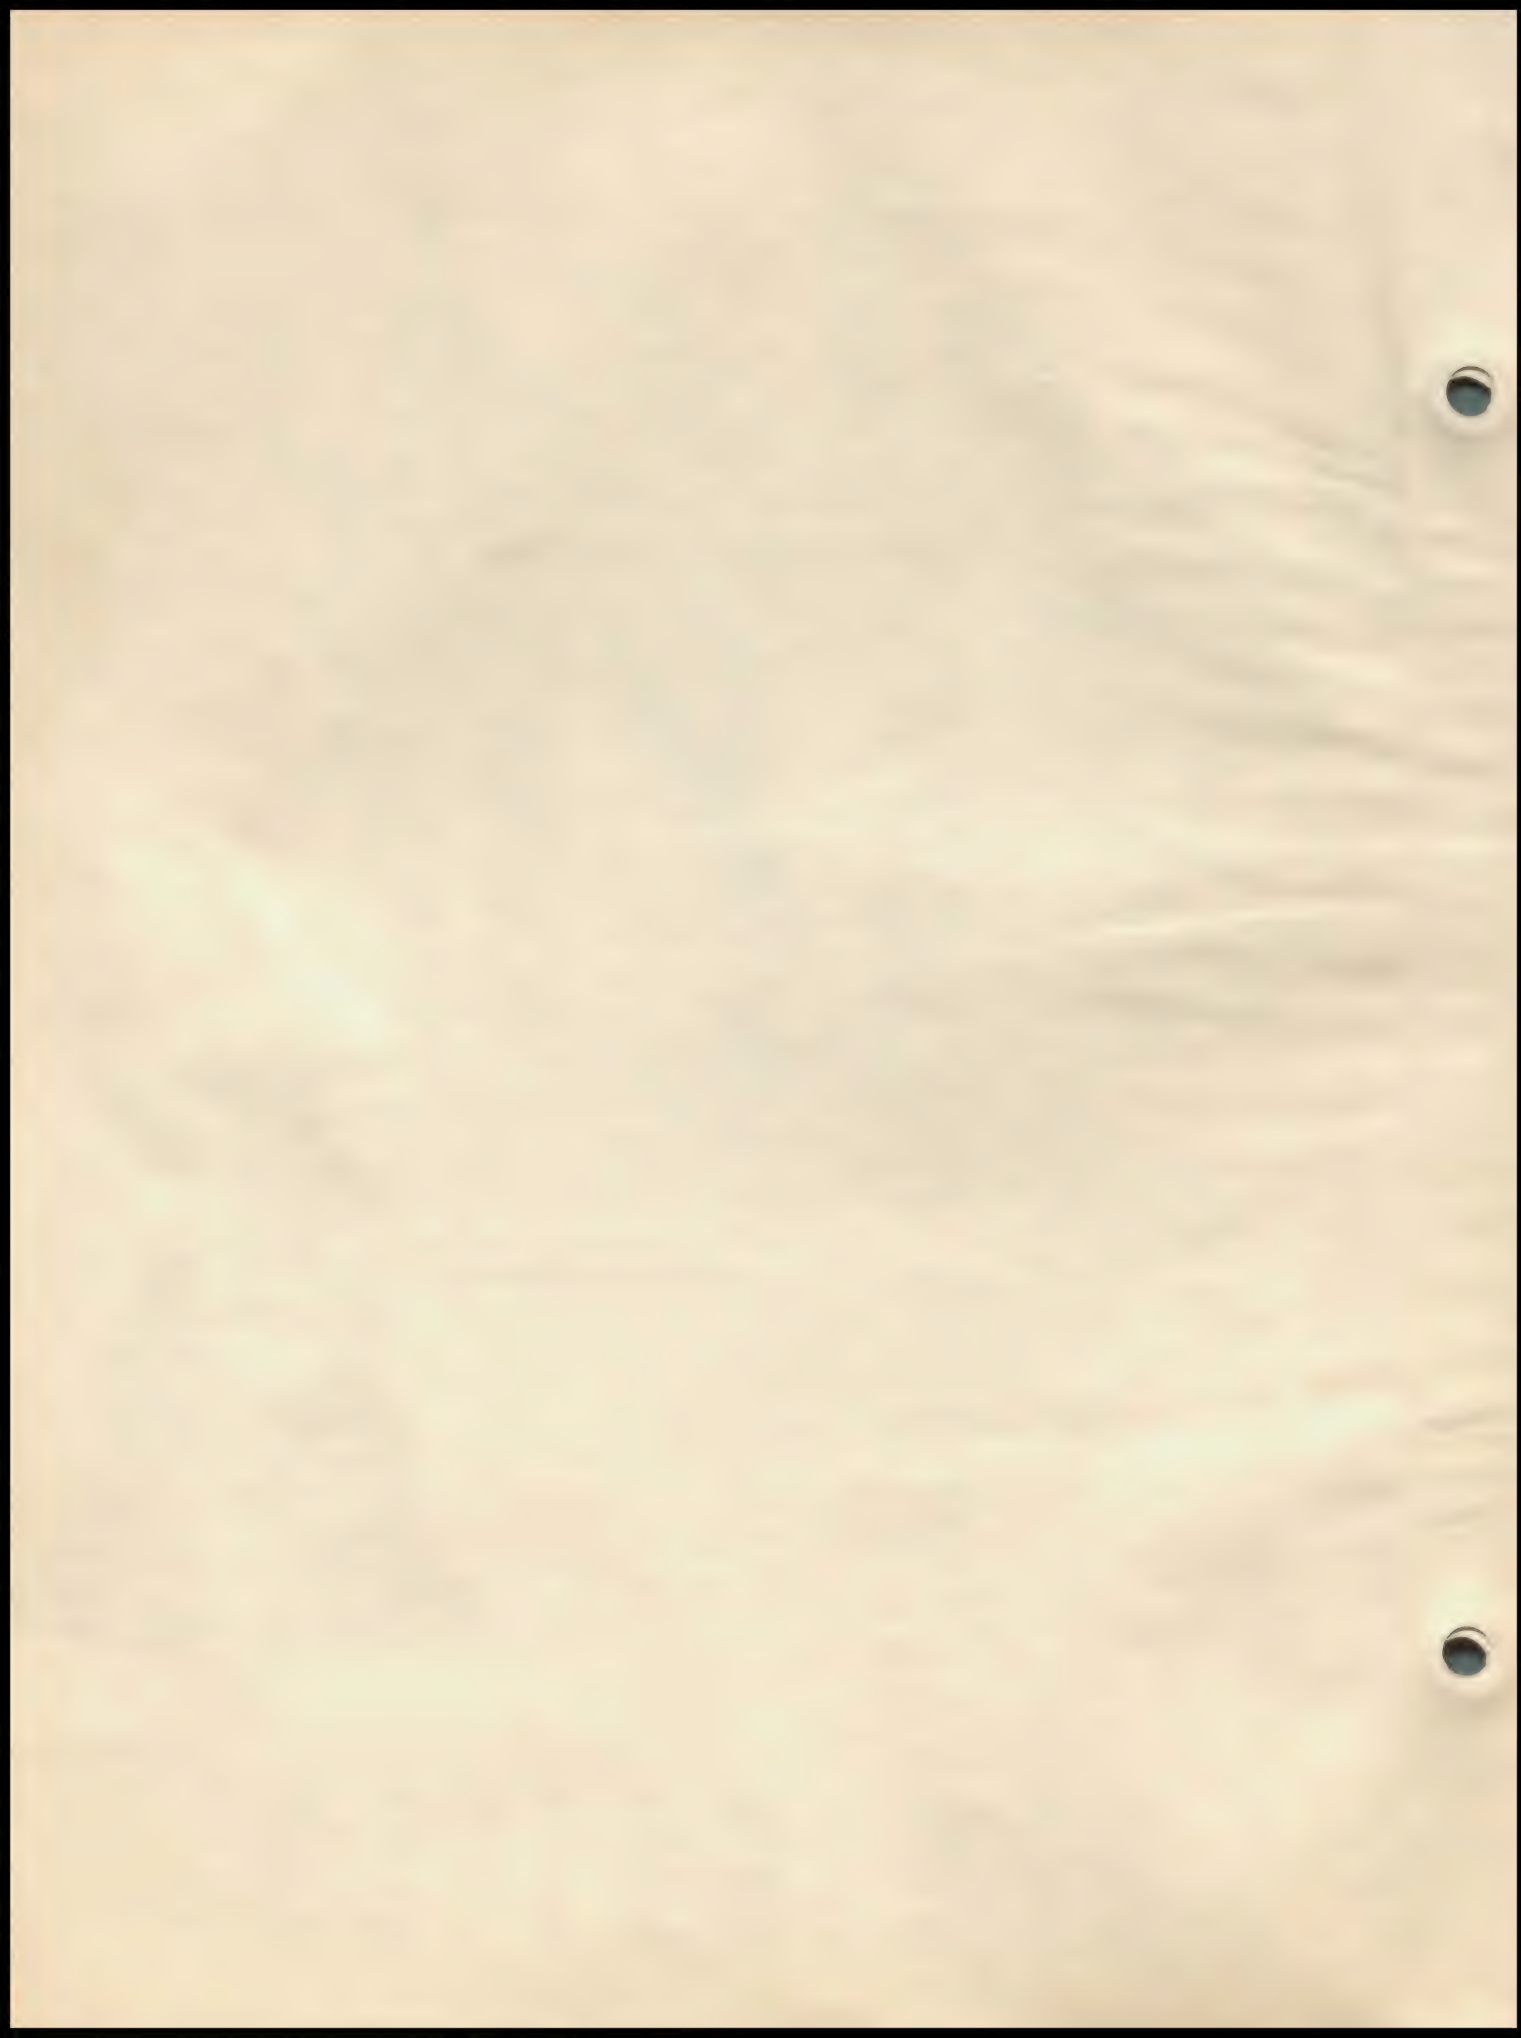

We find ourselves before a wide translucent door. Tall gold letters add prestige to its appearance. They read, "Mattern and Rall; Detectives at large under the Auspices of the F. B. I." Ah Ha! Government workers! We catch a brief glimpse of Marshall in the laboratory mixing up some flea powder for the Company bloodhounds while Keith entertains-- Excuse me, interviews--a young lady client in his office.

The crystal ball clouds over for the final time, not to clear again until next year, when it will again reveal the mysteries of the future.

JUNIORS

Junior Class

"UNTIL"

The Junior Class entered old H. H. S. as a small but ambitious class, and have continued to be so. They chose Frank Burns as their advisor and have kept him through all three years.

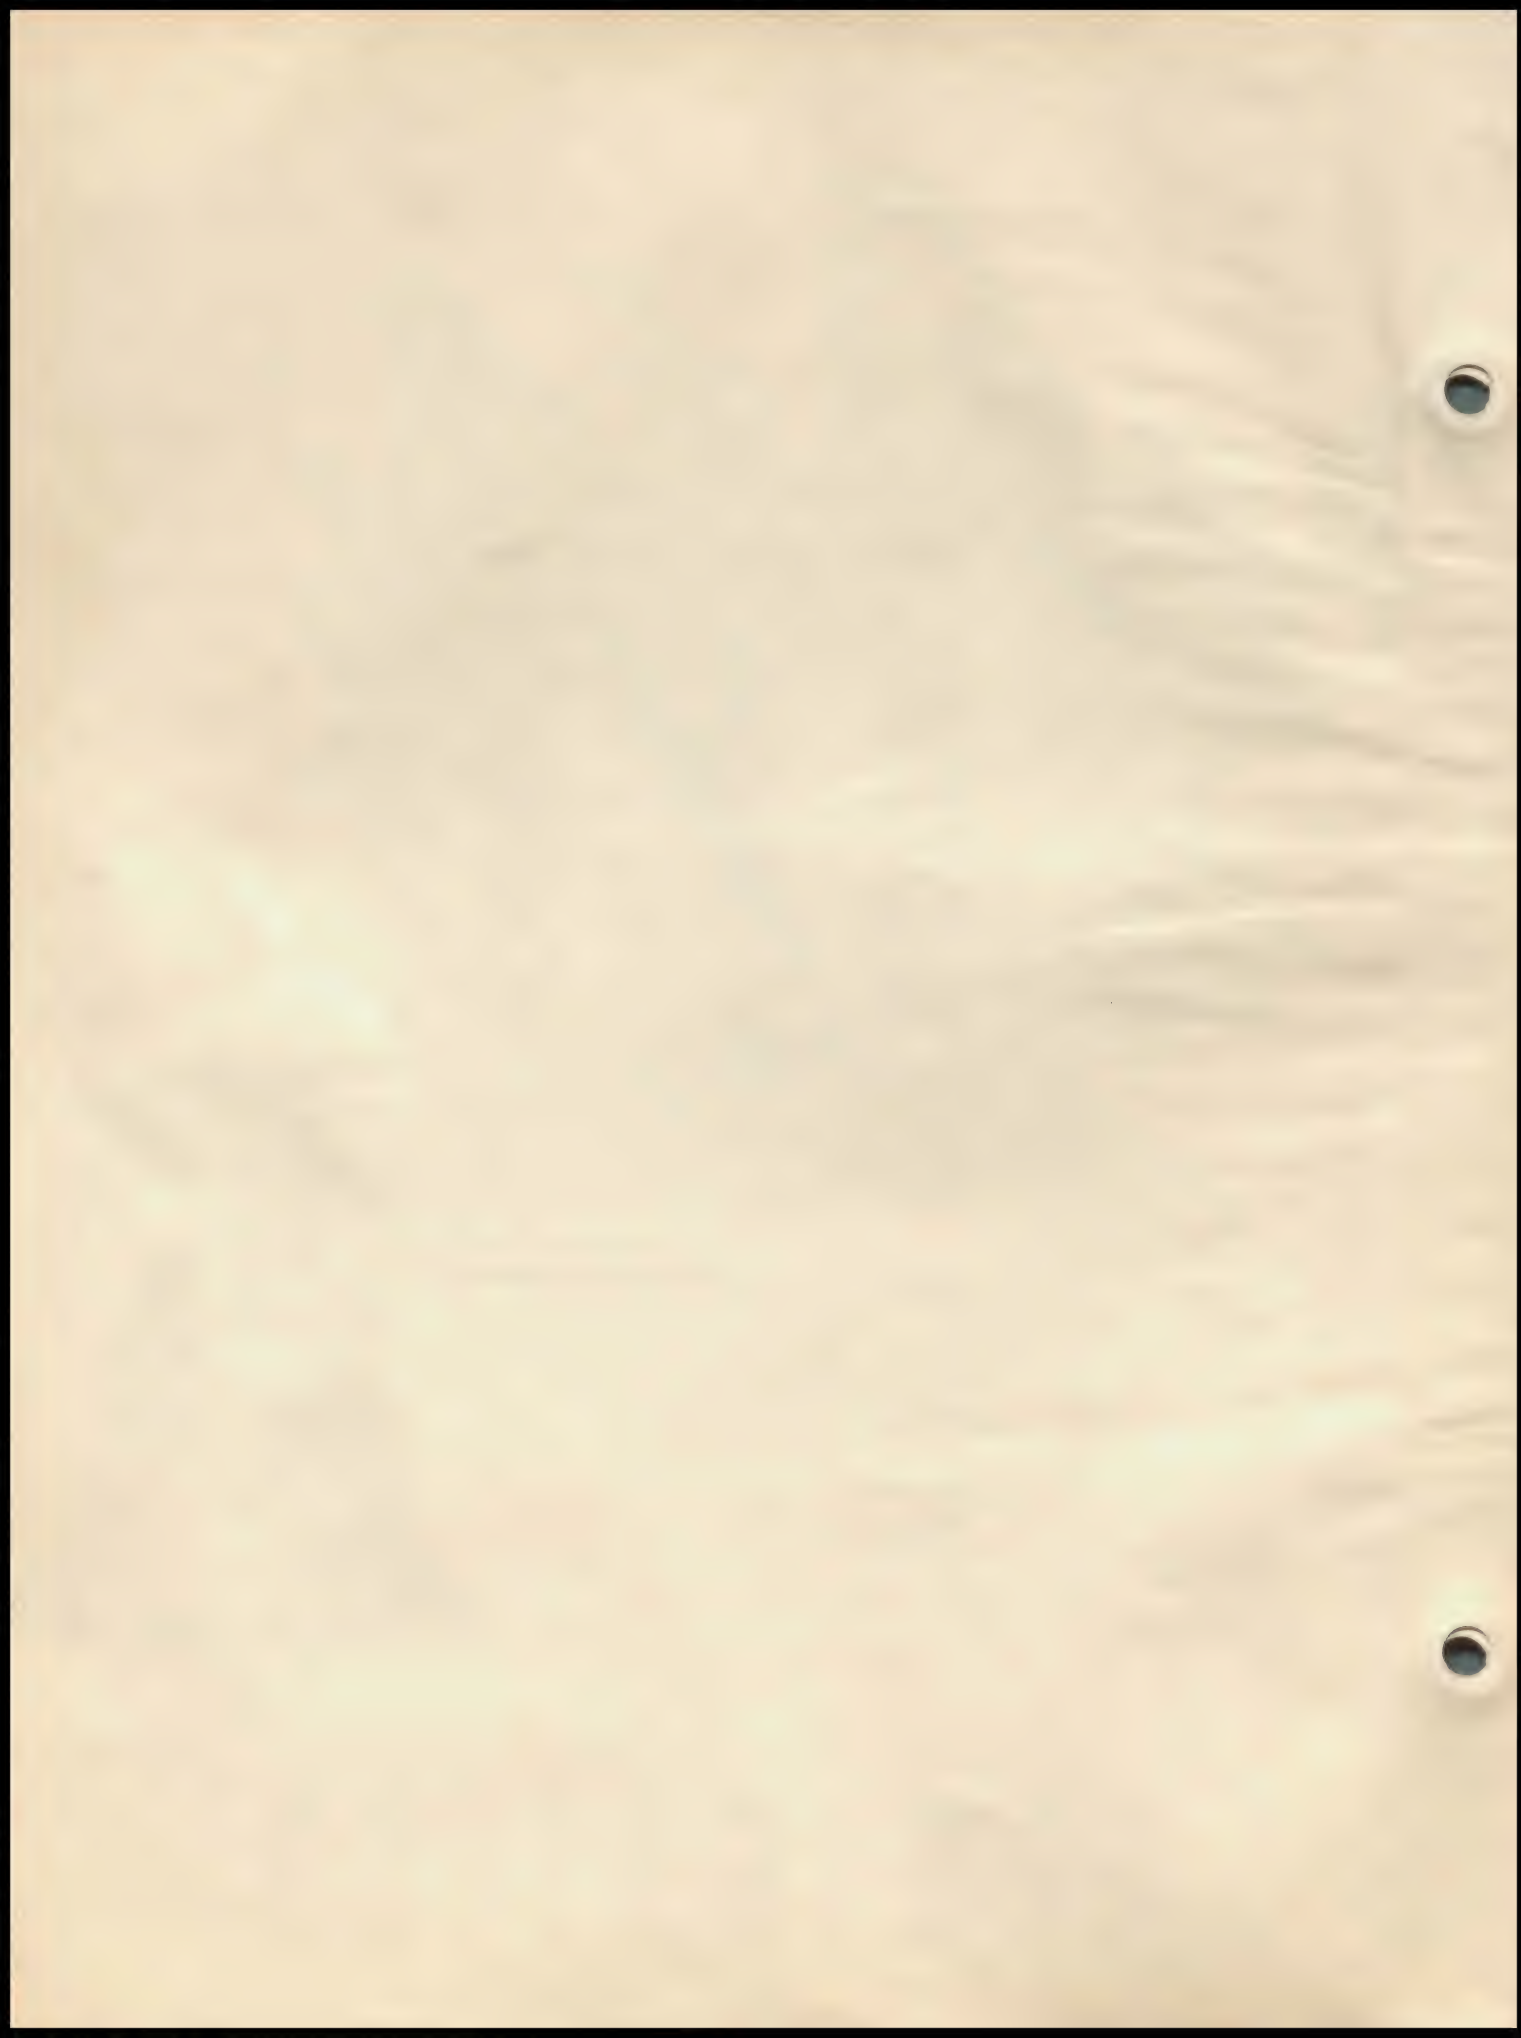

This year they have chosen Norman Hedeman, as President--Violet Curtis as Vice President--Helenmae Virtue as Secretary--Mary Adams as Treasurer and Dorothy Calvert as Student Council Representative.

They are doing a splendid job with their plans for working on the Junior-Senior Prom which is to be held on May 14, 1949. For their theme they have chosen "Stardust" and Gus Fuhrman's Orchestra will play for this big event.

We sincerely hope that this ambitious class will come through with flying colors in all they do in the future.

Sophomore Class

"DAY BY DAY"

The Class of '51 is a comparatively large class consisting of twenty-eight members.

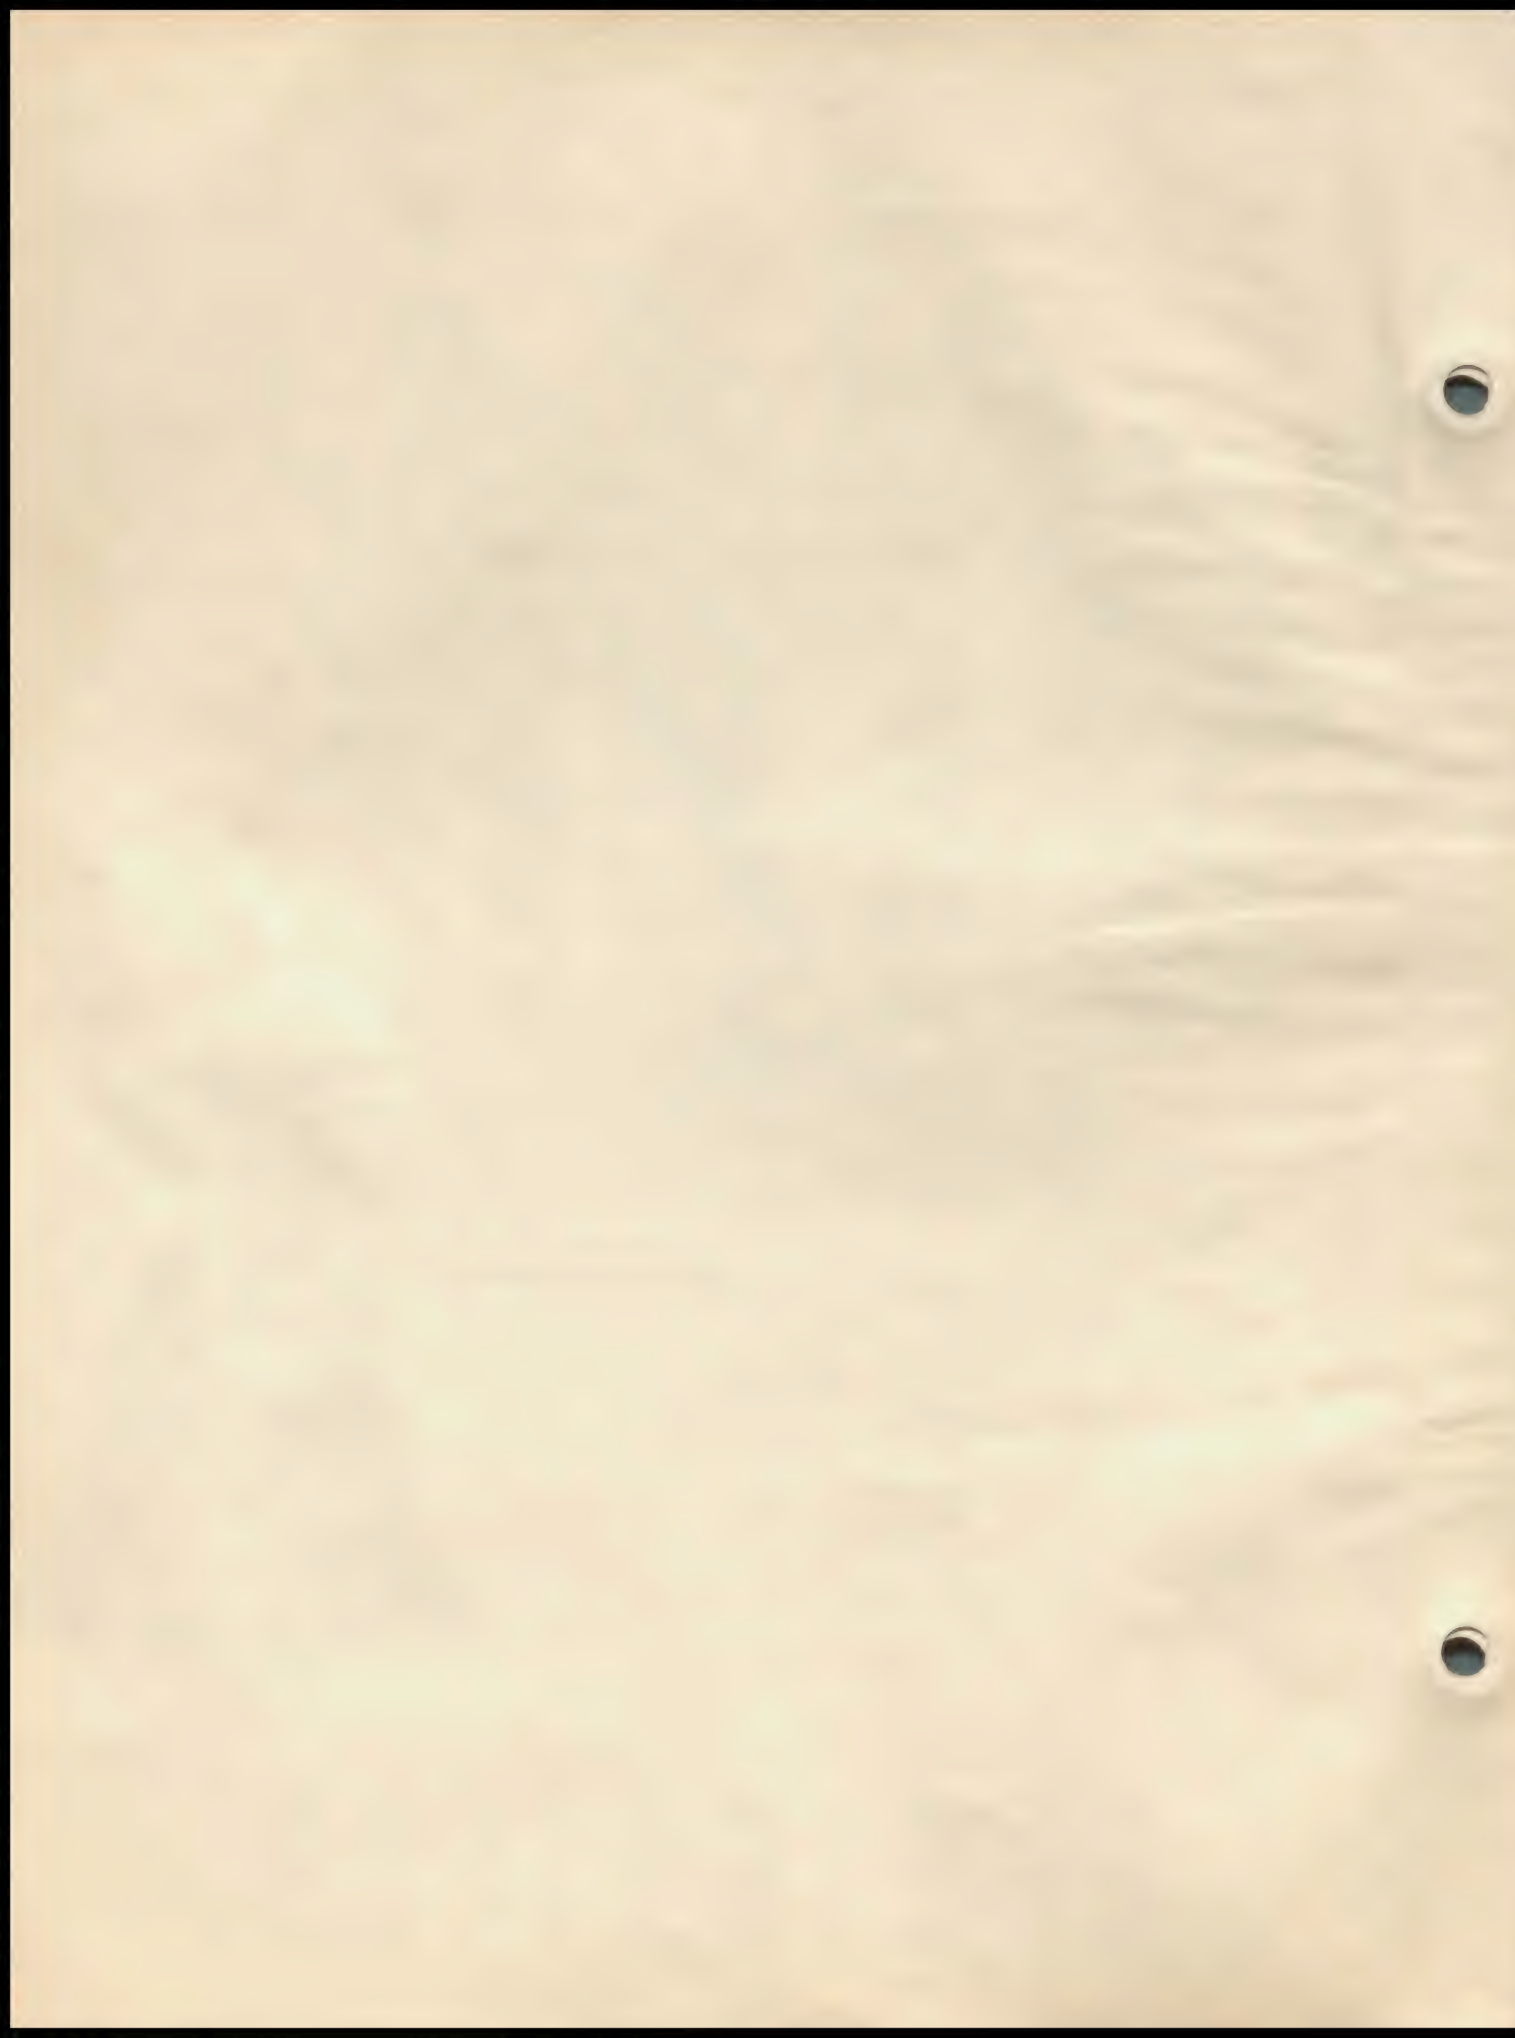

This class made up the biggest share of the light weight basketball team and held a very good record with Don Schatzer making the majority of the points, and the other members very close behind.

This year they have chosen Wayne Scharf as President--Don Cliff as Vice-President--Dick King as Secretary-Treasurer and Donna Sweeney as Student Council Representative. For their class advisor they have chosen Jack Hirst, who is also the coach.

As yet, the Sophomore class has not been too active in money making plans and believe us, they'll need plenty of it for the future, but we feel sure they will do so soon.

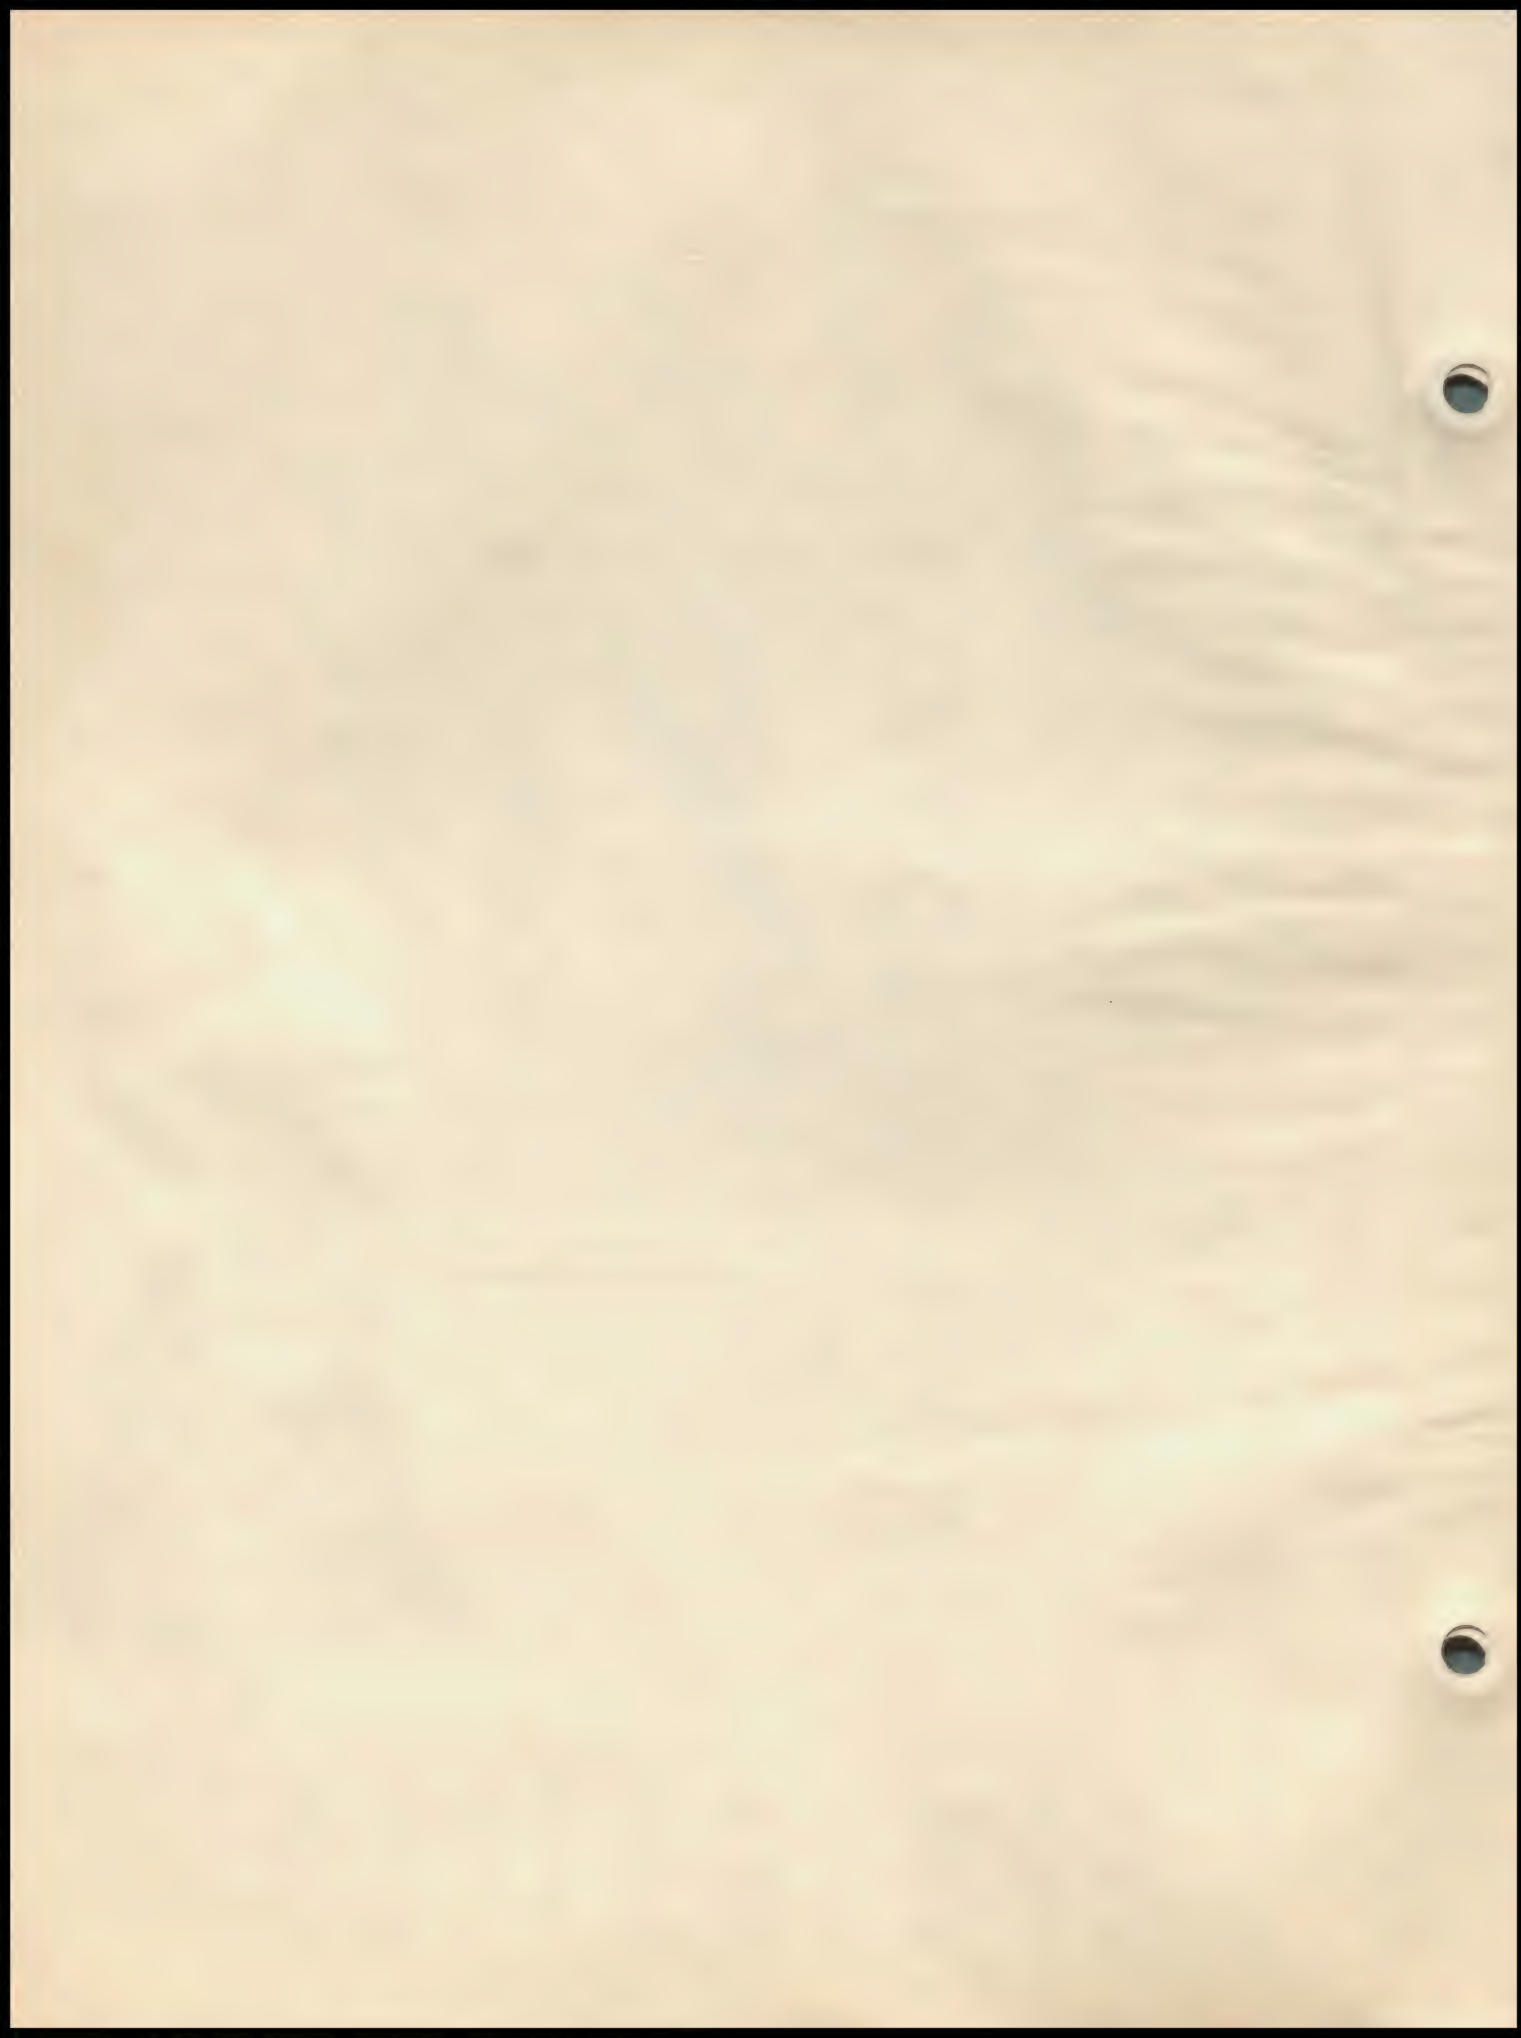

FRESHMEN

Freshman Class

"AREN'T YOU GLAD YOU'RE YOU"

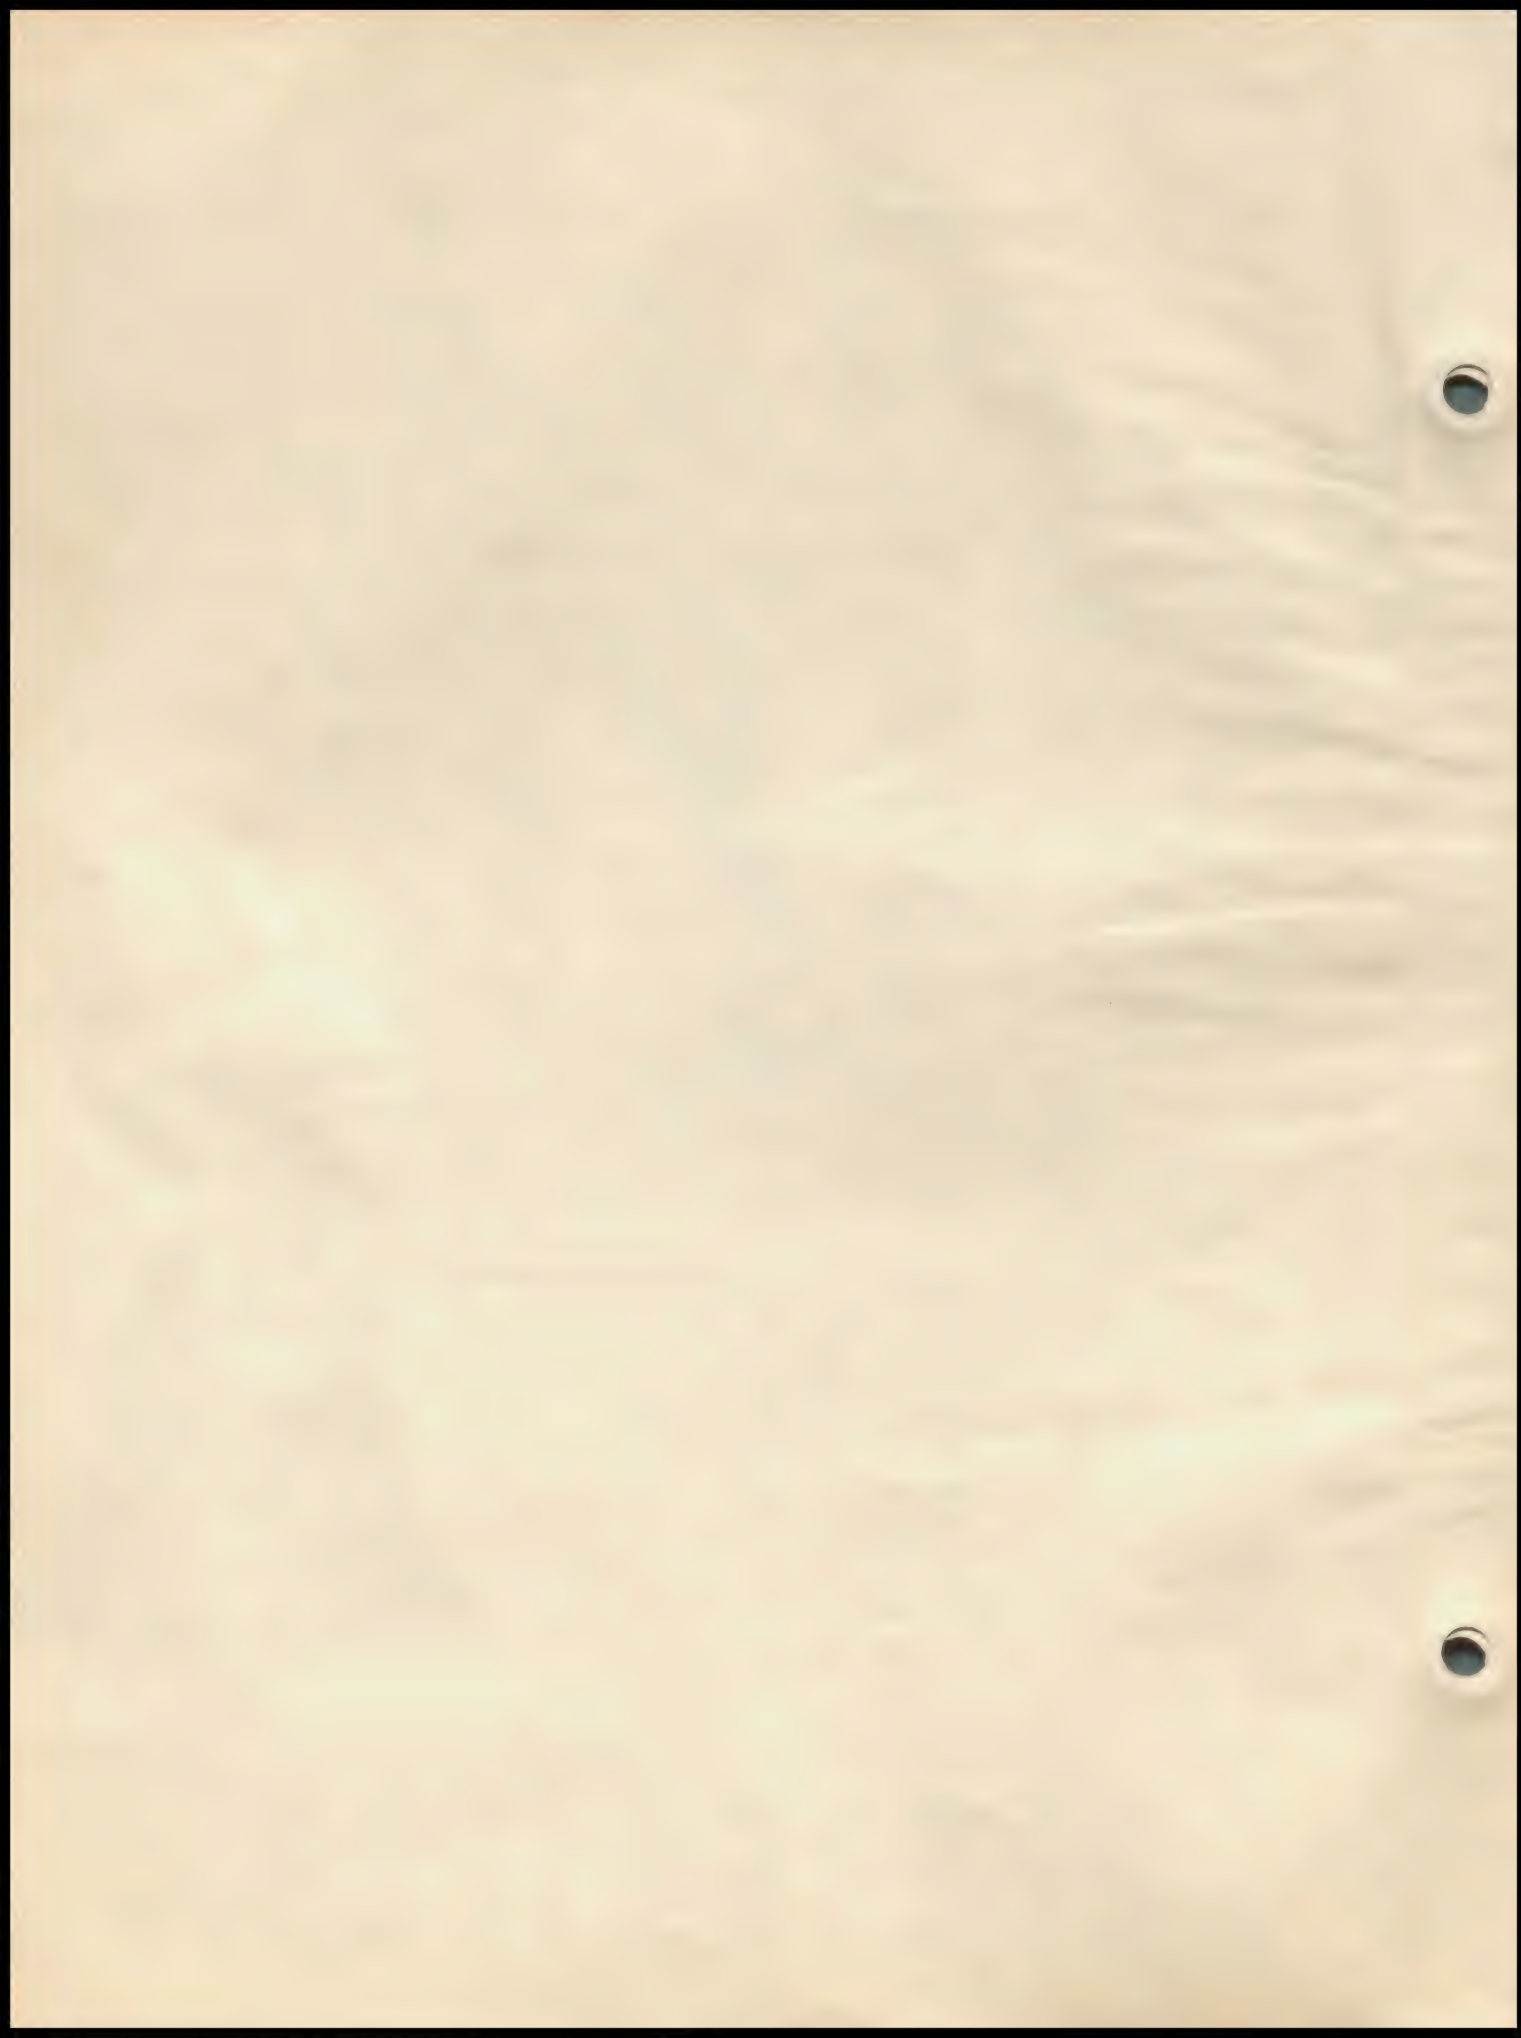

The romping, rollicking, Class of '52 entered H. H. S. with a bang bringing thirty-four members to our beloved group of students.

One of the biggest events of the year for both the Seniors and these Freshmen was Initiation Day. They were really an intelligent looking group that day. It may have been a little rough (for the Freshmen especially) but we really believe that a good time was had by the entire student body.

For their class officers they have chosen Julie Jones as President--Virgil Curtis as Vice-President--Betty Jean Noton as Secretary-Treasurer and Bill Casey as Student Council Representative. For their class advisor they have Miss Sword.

One thing we enjoy about this class is their wonderful ability to get along with all the teachers and members of the Student body. We sincerely hope that they come out of H. H. S. as lovingly as they came in.

The new 1948-1949 basketball season has rolled around again. The Hanover Red Devils came through with a more successful basketball record and a higher standing in the conference than they had finished with last year.

To make up this year's squad we had eight returning letter men to choose from.

On November 19, the team opened the season against Galena, coming through the game with not a very impressive score, winning by only two points--41-39. This was a game in which the boys really found their possibilities. The team showed real teamwork, and basketball sense was displayed throughout the game. "Jug" Jagielski led this well-balanced team with nine points. The players improved somewhat with every game, and by the time Christmas vacation came, they were tied for third place in the conference.

During the Christmas holidays the Red Devils traveled to Winslow to engage in the Holiday Tournament. The first night of the tournament they played Orangeville. The team displayed very poor teamwork and Orangeville won the game 49-32. The final night of the tournament the boys played Scales Mound, who had been beaten by Warren, for the Consolation Trophy. Miller led the team with 15 points, to win the first trophy Hanover has won since 1943.

After the holidays we again resumed play. The Red Devils were set back by four straight defeats. Even though losing the East Dubuque game, the team displayed its basketball skill and teamwork it had shown in the first game of the season at Galena.

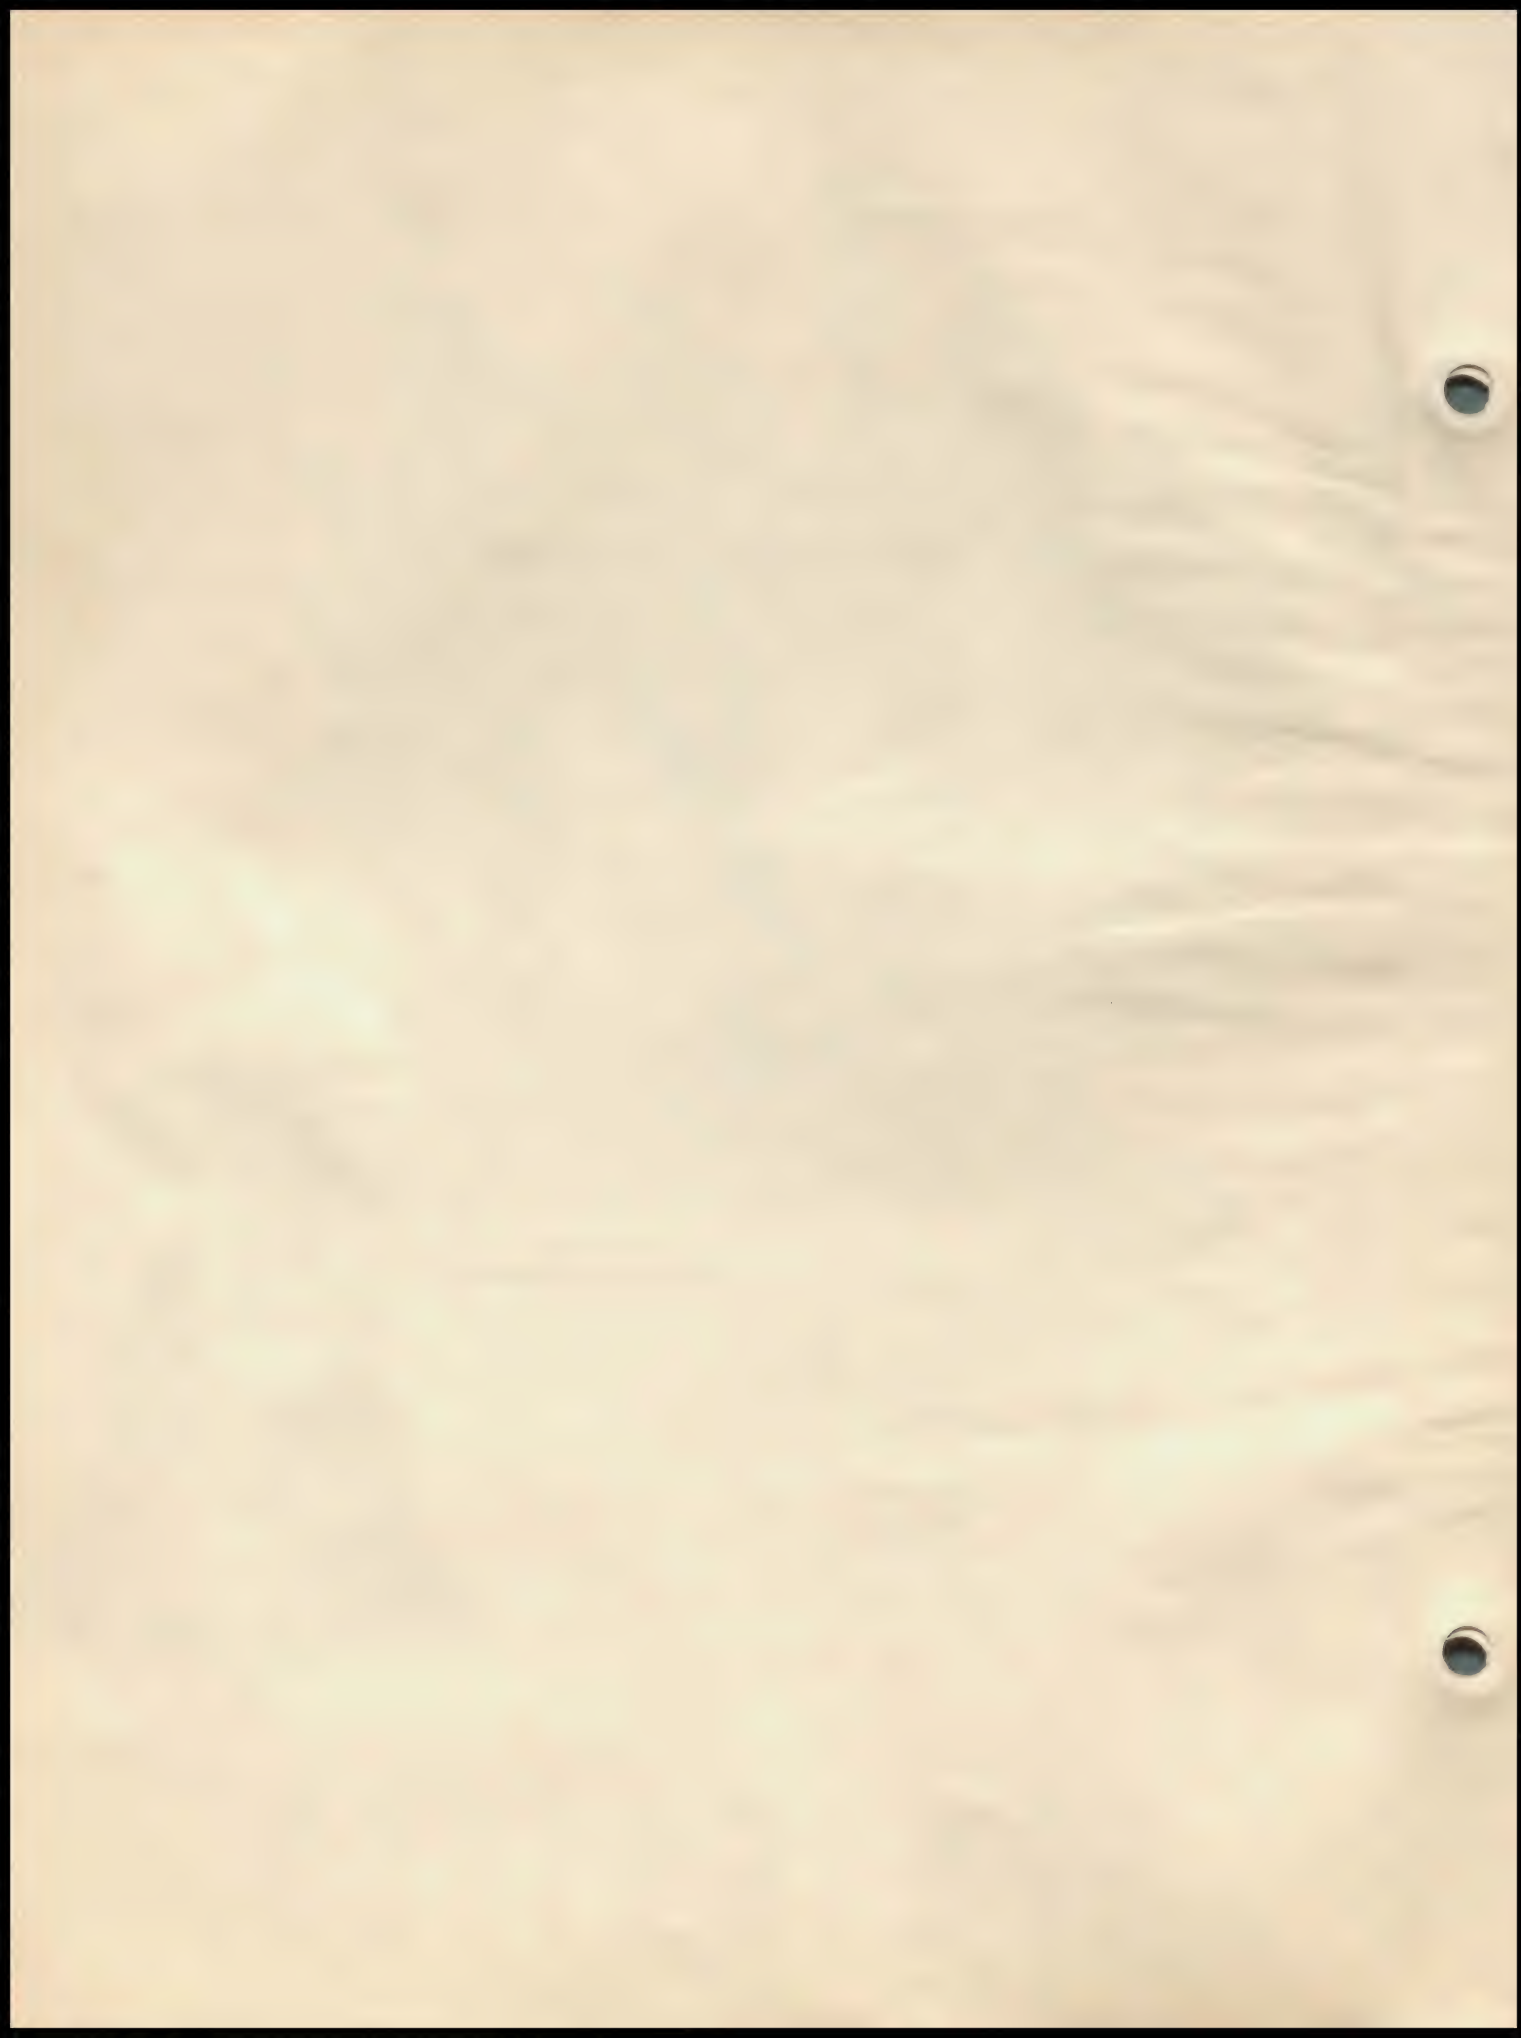

After the Red Devils had shown such a poor performance during some games, the East Dubuque team thought they would romp over us. When the game was over the team was beaten by only 3 points; 50-47. The team was beaten on free throws mostly. East Dubuque made 18 free throws while Hanover made 11. "Petie" Suck led the team with 14 points.

On January 25, the Red Devils won their first game in the Jo Daviess County Tournament. The next night the team was beaten by Stockton which ended all hopes of winning the trophy.

The rest of the season the team kept doing their best to finish higher in the conference. Our final standing read: Won 5, Lost 14; Average .347. Thus, after a hard season the team ended in fourth place.

In the District Tournament at Mt. Carroll the Red Devils engaged Lanark, champions of their conference. Like all the rest of the games, the team was expected to let their rivals run over them. The team put up a good fight, but Lanark with their height, which has bothered our team all season long, was too much of a match for our boys. Both of our team forwards, Jerry Miller and Lester Suck led their team with eight points each.

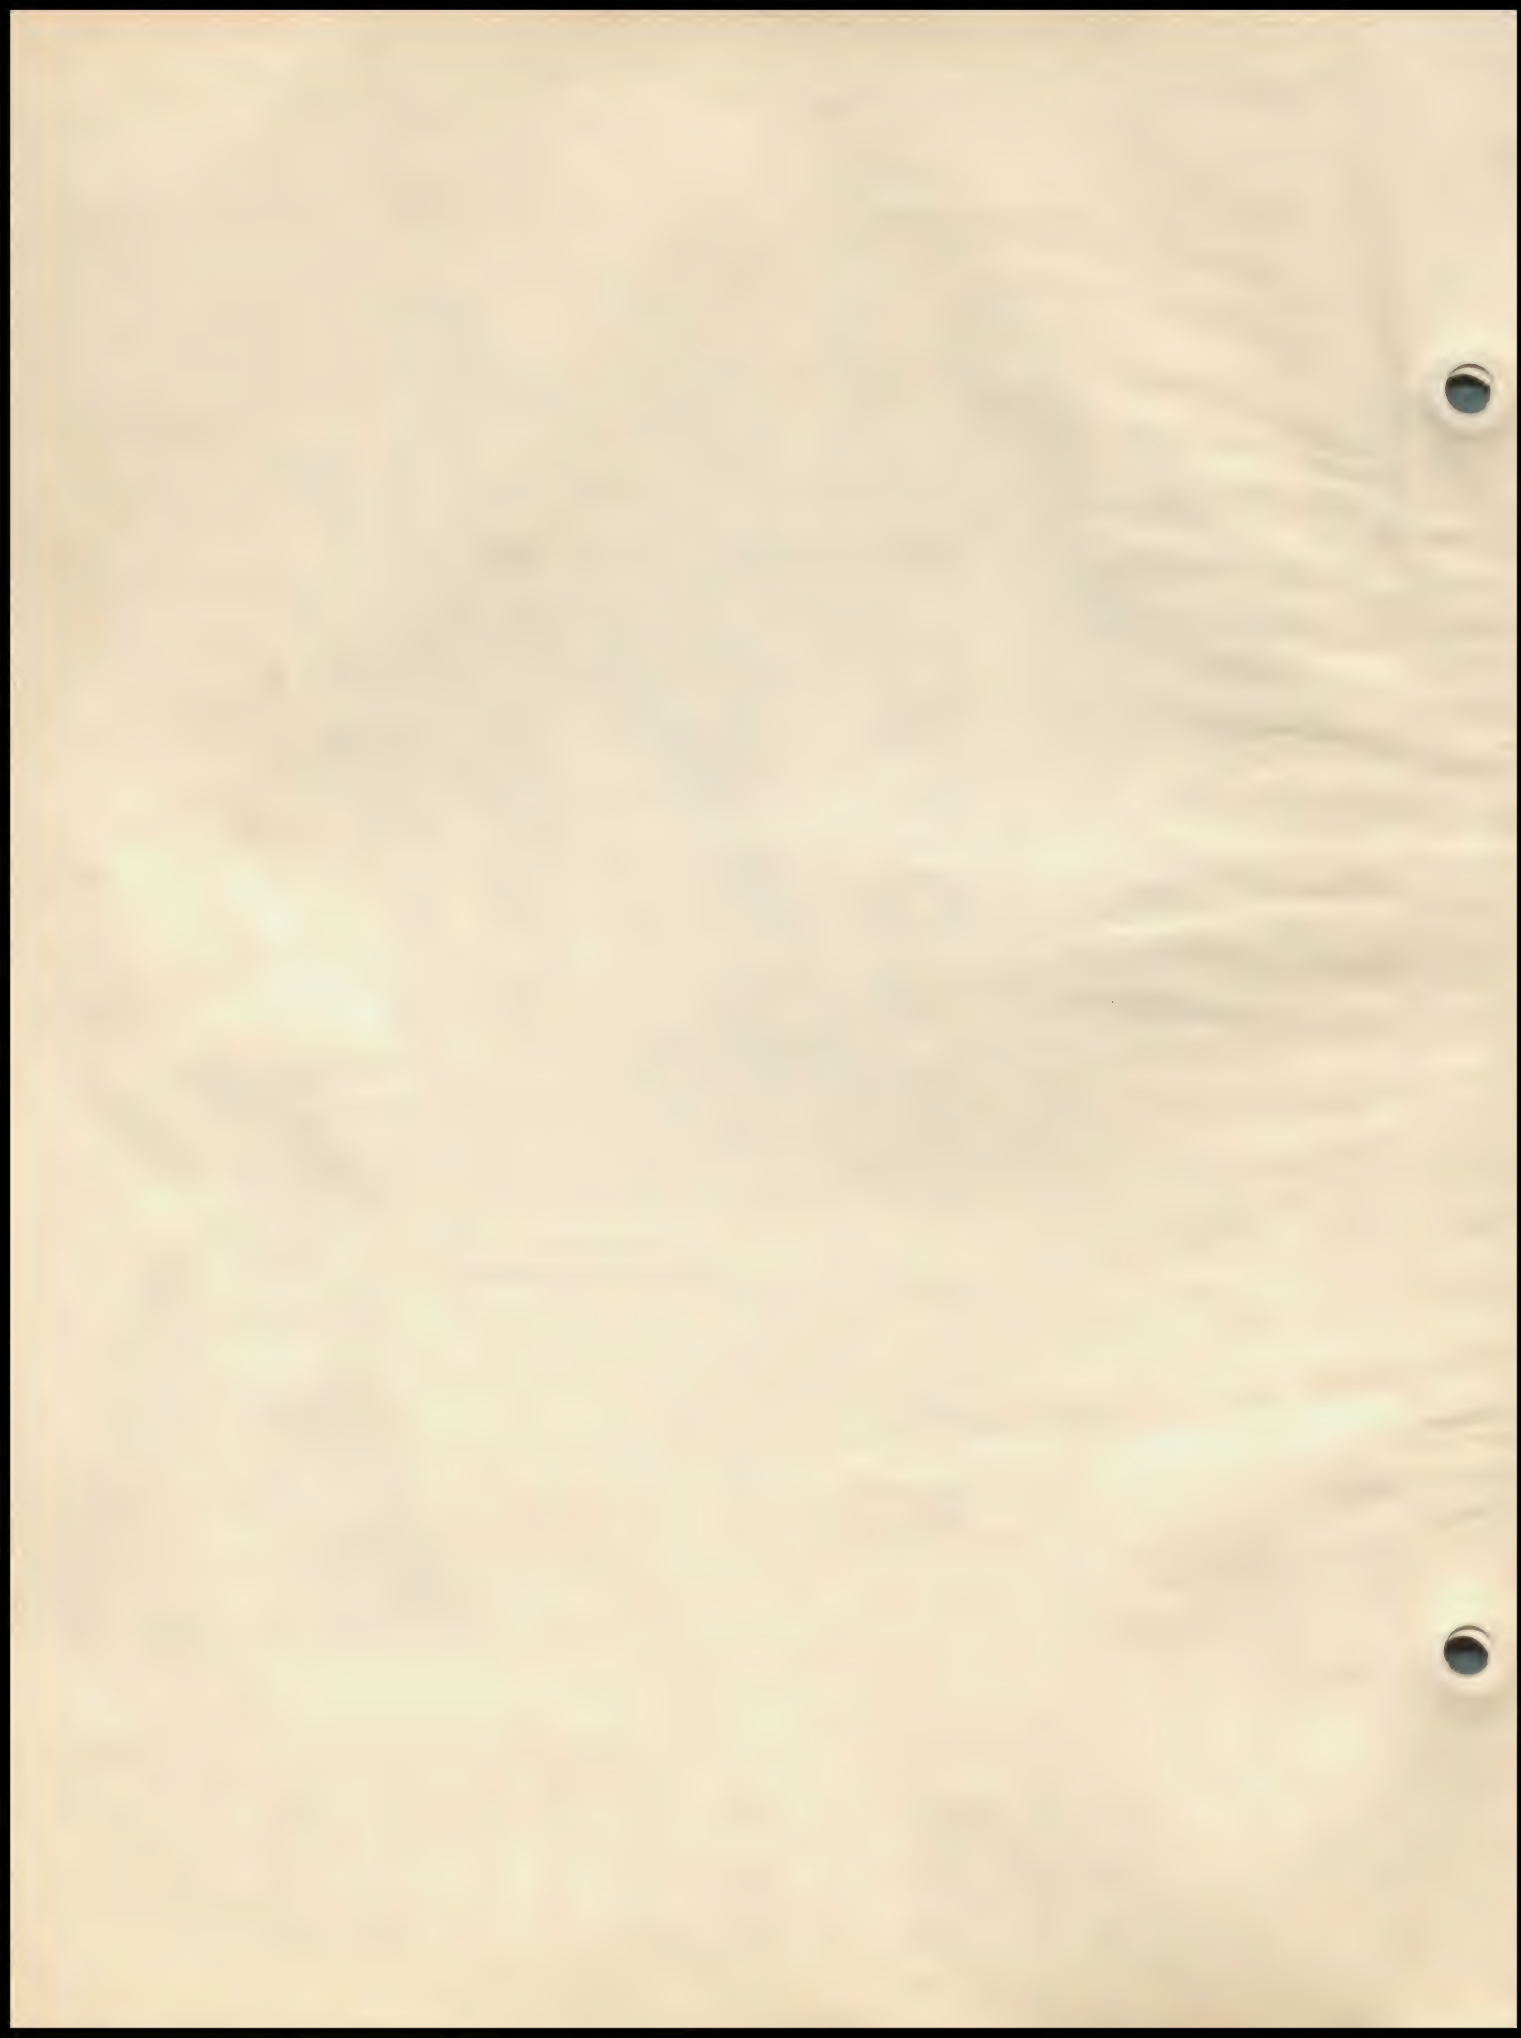

The Hanover Ponies (second team) had a more successful season than the Red Devils. They finished the season with a record of ten wins, one loss. Although they were upset in the lightweight division tournament, they were champions of the light-weight division conference race. Don Schatzer starting center and fast developing reserve, led the Ponies with a total of 359 points for the season.

Both of the school teams owe a great deal of their success to Mr. John Hirst, our new coach, who came from Galena, and is a graduate of Loras College, Dubuque, Iowa. The students, faculty and basketball fans agree that Mr. Hirst did an excellent job in bringing the team up to a higher standing than in previous years.

We, the seniors, wish the school, and the team representing the school future success in athletics.
